Summer and Strawberries

Germany's Victory Surprising the Greek

The Billion Dollar Age

—By Arthur Brisbane—

LOS ANGELES, March 25—Real summer here, bright sunshine every day. Young women walking about with arms bare to the shoulders. Men picking red ripe strawberries on West Huntington drive in Arcadia, one of the city's well-named suburbs.

The Boulder Dam development is assured. Private individuals will probably get the power. But this and other cities near it will at least get the extra water supply that a million more population will soon demand. And the increased power supply at presumably lower prices will stimulate the already remarkable growth of industries on this coast. The people are cheerful here.

Remember that this Pacific coast is as much a summer resort as a winter resort.

The House of Representatives today voted to increase the national contribution to good roads from $75,000,000 to $125,000,000 a year for three years, beginning next July.

This will mean, in three years, three hundred and seventy-five millions for better roads alone, good news for all citizens, for the automobile industry, its employes and for the unemployed.

Germany lost the war, but wins, in other directions. Recently the German Bremen, lowering the record across the Atlantic, took the "blue ribbon" from the British.

Today the North German Lloyd liner Europa beats the Bremen's record.

The Europa, magnificent 50,000-ton ship, according to builders here and in Britain, would be too expensive for American or British lines. The investment of $50,000,000 could not be profitable.

Germany beaten, is able to do what the winners of the war cannot do.

A Greek philosopher was exiled because he said the sun was probably bigger than all of the Greek islands. We know now that the sun is a million times bigger than the earth. And is distant space, other suns are a million times bigger than ours, making them one million million times bigger than the cosmos [illegible] lies in.

And indeed, Prof. Bernard Shaw, writing of the future, says that our solar system is fifty times bigger than astronomers thought. What would the old Greek have said to that?

This is the billion dollar age. The old plain million, once revered, is an unimportant as the extinct hanaom cab.

Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, foresees expenditures by his company in the next ten years amounting to TEN BILLION DOLLARS.

The Pennsylvania has already spent six thousand millions.

The running time from New York to Chicago will be cut to 14 hours, within a few years.

Trains will carry passengers' automobiles with them as ocean steamships now carry them. Radiophones will enable travellers to talk to their offices and to their homes.

Gen. Atterbury believes that consolidation of competing railroads will make possible the scrapping of some existing roads, with substitution of motor highway for railroad right of way.

That, if it happened, would be in the public interest.

There ought to be only one railroad company and one railroad owner in the United States. Uncle Sam ought to be the owner, all present stockholders liberally paid, the government employing the ablest railroad men of today, paying them as much as private enterprises could pay them.

It is too soon for that, and the times are against it, because which we confess that our government is not sufficiently able or honest to do what Canada does successfully.

At least we ought to eliminate wasteful competition, unnecessary overhead.

Andrew Mellon, now 75 years old, is the head, through ownership, of half a dozen of the greatest corporations in the world. Under three Presidents he has shown himself to be one of our richest Secretaries of the Treasury, reducing the public debt by billions each year.

If Mr. Mellon were a railroad conductor they would tell him he was too old and he would have to give up his job.

If he were a workman seeking employment, he would have to get his hair dyed black and lie about his age.

The best years of a man's life for useful work and for in

BRITAIN WILL SIGN FRENCH SECURITY

MacDonald Tells Stimson the Guarantee Will Be Granted

London, March 26 (AP)—Secretary Stimson and Prime Minister MacDonald conferred at the House of Commons this afternoon and it was reported that the premier told Col. Stimson Great Britain was prepared to [illegible] for France.

Secretary Stimson, after meeting Prime Minister MacDonald, visited a long report to President Hoover.

It was said that the scope of the security pact would depend on what concessions France was willing to make in her naval tonnage figures of 724,000 tons presented to the conference as the French program.

U. S. Flatly Refuses to Give France Security Pact

Washington, March 26 (AP)—The emphatic statement that the American government would not consider any consultative pact that would obligate military support was made today by Acting Secretary Cotton of the State Department, who asserted the position outlined by the American delegation at the London Naval parley coincided with that of officials here.

Cotton's statement was made after the conference with President Hoover today.

Cotton said it would be a probable inference that a consultative pact would not mean a material reduction of tonnage, although it might have a tendency toward that end.

The American statement, in Cotton's opinion, was prompted by reports in London newspapers of a changed position of the United States representatives.

Briand Off for London Pleased With U. S. View

Paris, March 26 (AP)—The American declaration, issued shortly after midnight, on the position of the U. S. regarding proposals for a so-called consultative pact was regarded in French official circles today as tending to clear the atmosphere at London and to hasten a decision.

France, it was said, continues to hope the naval conference would yield results, and Foreign Minister Briand, who left for London at noon, will explore all the avenues of a possible agreement.

No surprise was expressed here that the United States had reiterated her refusal to become involved in any pact that even implies aid, but the last paragraph suggesting that there may be other methods of guaranteeing French security again directed thought here toward a Mediterranean pact.

Hotel Fire Menaces Town

Bingham, Me., March 26 (AP)—Fire swept through three buildings on the Bingham hotel property today and threatened the entire town before rain, coming to the aid of the firemen, helped to control the blaze. Loss was estimated at $40,000.

Four horses and five cows perished in the stable. Automobiles of patrons were destroyed.

The hotel proper escaped.

Sparks were carried more than a quarter-mile to roofs of other buildings.

A volunteer fire brigade from the Wyman dam, under construction two and a half miles away, aided the Bingham [illegible] in fighting the flames.

'PLAIN SPOKEN PRIEST' WINS ELEVATION

Vatican City, March 26 (AP)—Pope Pius has appointed Rt. Rev. Mgr. James E. Cassidy, vicar-general of the diocese of Fall River, Mass., titular bishop of Ibora, with functions auxiliary to Bishop Daniel F. Feehan of Fall River.

Bishop Cassidy has won, for the [illegible] of his sermons on the evils of liquor, labor and contingent ecclesiastical subjects.

From pulpit and platform he constantly fought the saloon, thundered against industrial "slavery" and lashed the loose morals of roadhouse and dance-hall.

"As a Christian, as a Catholic, as a priest, until Rome says 'No,' I shall stand as firm against the saloon as others are standing for it," he recently declared at a Fall River Catholic Total Abstinence Society meeting.

GET THREAT OF DEATH

His attack on the liquor traffic brought him a threat of death a few years ago and resulted in a police guard around his rectory until the bitterness of the "wet-dry" battle had died down.

In a sermon during his rectorate of St. Patrick's church, Bishop Cassidy declared the condition of the Fall River dance-halls was a disgrace to the city and he flayed the police for neglect in their supervision.

On one occasion Mgr. Cassidy, armed with a stout cane and guided by the rays of a hand searchlight, made a personal tour of the Fall River parks to disband the groups of girls and young men congregated there.

NATIVE OF R. I.

The several wage cuts promulgated by the Fall River Manufacturers' Association also drew the fire of the militant priest.

Mgr. Cassidy is a native of Woonsocket, R. I. He was born in 1869, the son of James and Mary Cassidy. He was educated in the public schools and graduated from the high school in 1888.

His ordination took place in 1894 after he had prepared at St. Charles College, Baltimore, and St. Mary's Seminary in that city.

FIND WOMAN'S BODY IN RIVER

The body of an unidentified woman, which had been in the water six months or more, was taken from the Mystic river at Foster's wharf, Medford, today, by John Hutchinson, 16, of Riverside ave., and Amie LeClair, Riverside ave., Medford.

Medical Examiner Durell pronounced death due to drowning. Marks on the scull were determined to have been caused by striking ice or other obstructions.

The woman was dressed in a blue chinchilla coat with fur collar, worn over a blue and gray bathrobe. In the pocket of the coat was a pair of flesh-colored silk stockings.

She was between 40 and 45 years old, five feet five and 135 to 140 pounds.

DAN CARROLL, FIGHT PROMOTOR, NAMED AS CLUB OWNER

The Cotton Club of Lansdowne st., which was raided by federal authorities, who arrested five men, Dan Carroll, fight promoter, is reported to be the owner.

The raid was a surprise attack by the federal authorities in the cleanup drive prompted by the Garrett case by State authorities.

Bank deposits showing the Garrett Agency to have received in excess of the $123,950 already disclosed in 58 accounts have been located by Atty.-Gen. Joseph E. Warner.

The records of many of these bank accounts in the name of Oliver B. Garrett and his wife have reached the attorney-general from banks in small cities and towns, some of them far from Boston.

Three additional accounts arrived today. They are coming in every day," said an attache of the attorney-general's office.

Patrolman Lawless appeared at Atty.-Gen. Warner's office for questioning on his day off. He was not in uniform.

For more than an hour he was interviewed by Warner and his aides. The existence of a pool played by members of the police department and the sporting fraternity was said to have been the major topic under discussion.

He left the office once and returned after a brief absence with records of liquor raids or analyses made in connection with his activities as a member of the headquarters squad working with Garrett.

RING GRAFT ON CHINESE BARED BY AMERICAN

The Chinatown "racket"

"Hire this lawyer or go to jail."

"Do business with that bail commissioner or it'll go tough with you in court."

The Chinatown "racket"—a racket of petty graft split three ways:

One-third to the lawyer.

One-third to the head of the police raiding squad.

One-third to the bail commissioner.

A petty graft practised for years in Boston, according to information given to Atty-Gen. Joseph E. Warner and the Boston Evening American in the Garrett investigation.

Ye a graft not so "petty" when viewed in the light of repeated raids and a continued prosecution and persecution mounting toll over the years.

During the last few years of Oliver B. Garrett's reign as czar of the liquor and vice squad, raids in Chinatown were frequent and steadily increasing. Chinese guilty of no greater violations of the law than fantan, poker or gambling with dominoes were arrested in spectacular raids. Large numbers of them were herded to Lagrange st. police station, later to appear in court.

The raids became so common and the motive so apparent that certain judges began to comment upon them, and one predicted a shakeup in high police circles if they did not stop.

LAWYERS IN 'GRAFT'

Albert K. Sidlinger, former bail commissioner in his remarkable story from Deer Island now appearing exclusively in the Boston American, said:

"I know and I've backed my knowledge with rockbound evidence submitted to the attorney-general how Garrett and his squad operated in Chinatown, how certain lawyers were advertised by raiding officers as the only ones to retain if the defendants expected to get off with a fine."

The Boston American has confirmed Sidlinger's description of [illegible]

Lythgoe Is Called

At the conclusion of the conference he departed hurriedly and without comment.

Lythgoe was then sent for. When he entered the attorney-general's office, William Crawford was present. Crawford is the junior state chemist he discharged for violation of health department rules after Garrett and members of his squad charged that liquor submitted to Crawford for analysis had been tampered with.

They did not speak although Lythgoe spoke to Inspector John Mitchell with whom Crawford was talking. The junior chemist, since reinstated in the health department on court order, but transfered to other work, is engaged in checking with Warner the records of analysis of all liquor submitted by Garrett's squad.

The alleged inking of Mrs. Garrett's brother-in-law with the Hotel Bliss case caused considerable speculation.

The disclosure was made today as it appeared certain that Brissenden's counsel would carry to the Supreme Court the question of constitutionality, as a whole and in certain individual aspects—of the Legislative order for the probe.

Brissenden had been named before a foreman of the Garrett milk route and one of two men who said it served Boston bootleggers and houses of ill-fame.

WILL TEST POWER

Brissenden will be called as the first witness when the public hearings resume tomorrow or Friday that the new legislative mandate to be enacted and signed by Governor Allen today.

Apparently the sole purpose of holding any hearing this week is to again summons Brissenden in order that the question of Warner's power under the new resolve may be thrashed out before the courts, if the "reluctant witness" again

Brockton, March 26—Boys may be pardoned for tying a can to the tail of a neighbor's dog, but when they play marbles with a man's glass eye, William T. P. Nelson of this city what he thinks about it.

Nelson, according to local police, made just that discovery today on Court st., when he came upon a group of boys playing "aggies" with a glass eye he lost two weeks ago.

"It's the luckiest glassie I've ever had," said the lad who professed ownership.

"Well, you're out of luck right now," replied Nelson as he picked up his lost optic and hurried away.

refuse to testify. Warner will go at once to the courts for an order compelling him to do so. If such an order is issued, Brizzenden's attorney, William H. Shea, has indicated he will appeal to the Supreme Court.

Under such procedure a Supreme Court decision clearing the way for a continued probe under greater power, or disrupting the entire investigation, can be expected next week, not before Tuesday.

In the meantime it is practically certain that no further hearings would be held.

Warner will announce late today new rules governing the procedure of the hearings. These are expected to include the right of witnesses to have counsel present and, perhaps interrogate. His announcement waited upon Governor Allen's signature to the new order.

In this connection the attorney-general today called State Senator James G. Moran of Mansfield, who yesterday on the Senate floor during the Garrett resolve debate attacked Warner's methods of procedure with witnesses, especially with reference to the activities of newspaper men.

What passed between Warner and Moran was not made public, although it was known the attorney-general demanded an explanation of the Senator's remarks.

At the conclusion of his interview with the senator Warner was asked whether he saw anything wrong in permitting news photographers to make pictures at the hearing and he replied:

"If I had seen anything wrong in it, I would not have allowed it."

Another man questioned today was the young man who spent so much time in conference with Warner and his aides yesterday and who was reported to have a connection with John F. Mullen, the "boy broker," now in state prison, and said to have volunteered to tell all he knows in the Hotel Ritz case.

The youth arrived for further questioning accompanied by State Detective John Stokes. When asked by newspapermen whether he was a friend of Mullen's, he said: "You've got me wrong."

Another man, whose identity was shilded, was questioned for a short time.

Aides of Warner are making a check of court records ordering forfeiture of seized liquor in comparison with records of receipt of this liquor at the State's storage warehouse, 1269 Columbus ave. There is no secret of the fact that the search is being made for a "leak" enroute.

Another check is under way to determine the amount of money represented in bottles reported broken in transit to the warehouse.

Lieut.-Insp. E. O'Connor of the State Police, who is in charge of the warehouse, will undoubtedly be called as a witness.

A definite break in the Boston liquor and vice rings is imminent as a result of Asst. Atty.-Gen. George B. Lourie's admission that two former members of Garrett's raiding squad had unbosomed themselves of information of a startling nature.

The two former policemen, whose names were kept secret, came to the State House voluntarily, and at the conclusion of a long interview with Atty.-Gen. Warner and his aides, expressed willingness to tell their story at a public hearing.

ROW OVER GRAFT

Some of the men are said to have resented having been left out, and as a result were subsequently removed from the squad and placed back on the street. The two men were included in these. Both later left the department.

It was intimated that to these two men the state will make its first offer of immunity. They are said to have freely discussed their association with Garrett over a period of years, revealed secret activities of the police headquarters liquor squad and in other ways have furnished the investigators with important evidence.

SQUEAL ON GARRETT

Their stories included definite dats, names and dates, on activities of Garrett when he was at the height of his power as "czar" of the Boston liquor squad. In addition they furnished countless leads, it was said, on which private investigators of the attorney-general were to start work today.

The appearance of the two men at the State House was a complete surprise to Atty.-Gen. Warner and his aides in the inquiry. It was emphasized later that the men had been examined separately, and that their stories had dovetailed in all phases of any significance.

One of the men is said to have been linked with Garrett in evidence in the hands of the attorney-general from other sources. He was perfectly willing, however, to relate details of his participation in any venture with the former chief raider.

All statements made by the men were taken down by a stenographer, and at the conclusion of the examinations the men signed the transcripts.

RACKETEERS WORRIED

In view of this unexpected development, leaders of the probe freely intimated that more voluntary information is expected from men who hitherto had remained aloof. It was pointed out that many persons connected with graft and vice conditions in Boston now realize that their logical course would be to take advantage of the immunity by the state.

The scope of the inquiry, as enlarged by the Legislature, and the depths it had reached so far into the startling reign of crime in Boston is said to have struck fear in the hearts of even the "racket" leaders, whose impregnability was usually taken for granted by the underworld.

Another disclosure of significance was evidence that millions of dollars worth of liquor has been brought into Boston labelled as vinegar and molasses and distributed through the "little gang" referred to by Atty. Gen. Warner as his objective in the inquiry.

Speakeasies and other questionable resorts in the "system" of the gang are supplied with liquor through this means.

Behind the liquor traffic, financing the operations and passing on any new venture planned by the "gang," is a group of men whose names never have been whispered in connection with anything but the highest and most commendable pursuits of society.

CHECK UP WAREHOUSES

Dummy business organizations in Boston and other cities have been used as the distribution points for the liquor, the attorney-general's office was informed. In all instances the contraband was shipped as molasses or vinegar in steel drums.

It was stated that persons engaged in transporting the liquor had no reason to believe that they handled such merchandise. In some cases, it was said, loans were secured on the bills of lading. A checkup of a number of Boston's warehouses will be made, it was said, to determine if the liquor was stored in these places with or without the knowledge of the proprietors.

A carefully typewritten note, in which names and addresses were mentioned, was received by the attorney-general's office and contained the information that one establishment dealing in vice had paid $10,000 and many diamonds" to the coffers of the "little gang."

GRAIN ELEVATOR PLAN BACKED BY SHIPPERS

State House Hearing Is Told How Project for Boston Can Be Financed

Governor Allen's recommendation for an investigation of the advisability of establishing a modern grain elevator in South Boston by the Boston Port Authority and the State Department of Public Works was strongly supported at a legislative hearing today.

Frank S. Davis, for the Maritime Association of the Chamber of Commerce and the Flour and Grain Exchange, revealed that the Farmers' National Grain Corporation, co-operating with the Federal Farm Board in the stabilization of grain prices, is ready to assist in getting shipments of grain routed through Boston in the event storage space is provided.

Davis told the committee the step is one of the most important taken in years to improve port business. He cited the recent improvement in the Welland canal, skirting Niagara falls, whereby grain can be shipped from the head of the Great Lakes to Oswego and Ogdensburg, N. Y.

From these points it could be shipped to Boston at a rate lower than rates applying to Philadelphia and Baltimore.

He revealed that approximately $5,000,000 is to be spent in the development of the port at Oswego by the government, while private interests contemplate the erection of huge grain elevators.

In regard to financing the new project, Davis said he believed the State should construct it and lease it to the New Haven road at a nominal rental.

11 PRIESTS ARE FREED IN CHINA

Rome, March 26 (AP)—The Society for the Propagation of the Faith, missionary organization of the Roman Catholic Church, today received a cablegram from Shanghai reporting that 11 American priests at Kanchow, Kansi, for whose safety there had been fears, had been freed by lifting of a Communist siege these. All the priests were well.

Two Boston priests were among those endangered by the Communist threat. They are Rev. James Corbett, son of Mrs. Mary Corbett of Jones ave., Upham's Corner, and Rev. Joseph A. Gately, formerly of Dorr st., Roxbury.

Father Corbett celebrated his first mass in 1923 at St. Matthew's Church, Dorchester, while Father Gately was ordained three years ago at St. Vincent's seminary.

The group of 11 missionaries was headed by Bishop John A. O'Shea, whose home is at Deep River, Ct.

MARCONI TALKS TO AUSTRALIA

Genoa, Italy, March 26 (AP)—Short radio waves cutting across the Atlantic, America and the Pacific today carried the voice of Marquis Guglielmo Marconi, inventor of wireless, from his yacht Electra here to Sydney, Australia, to open the electrical exposition there.

He spoke across 11,000 miles to the director of the electrical association, Fisk. Later in the day he transmitted a small unit of power to Sydney closing a circuit there and lighting the electric lamps of the exposition.

The inventor said:

"It is not more than 30 years since I transmitted the first faint wireless signals across the Atlantic ocean. Today we demonstrate that it is possible by wireless to bring powerful currents into operation at other ends of the earth.

Andrue Harding, Associated Press staff correspondent, also talked to Mr. Fisk who said: "I hear you perfectly."

POLICE GRAFT ON CHINESE

existing conditions. There was graft.

That does not mean that every lawyer representing Chinese is involved. The number of guilty lawyers was small. Some of the most reputable lawyers in the city have represented Chinese merchants and others and represent them today. They are above reproach.

Nor does it mean that every raid was conducted with graft as the motive. There were "honest" raids conducted by honest policemen.

But the Chinatown racket was hard played and it was a profitable source of tainted money.

Last April Judge Thomas H. Dowd in municipal court delivered a scathing denunciation of police tactics in Chinatown, characetrized them as "grandstand methods" and fined 62 Chinese arraigned before him the minimum of $1.

"I'm not at all in favor of these grandstand parades," Judge Dowd said to Special Officer Joseph Clark of Garrett's squad, who presented the evidence in court.

"There is nothing but publicity stunts and these methods will reach the anti-climax similar actions produced a few years ago, when police raiders brought in 60 or 70 at a time.

"If somebody is not careful there will probably be another transfer of police captains. I am sick and tired of seeing mobs such as this come into court. If this continues I will do what I did under similar circumstances a few years ago—I will begin to put all these cases on file.

"This looks very much as if you were rubbing it in."

About three years ago almost as many Chinese were taken in a raid on Oxford st. The attorney who represented them requested Judge Cohen to visit the scene of the raid so that he might familiarize himself with the exact location. He did so, and upon returning to court found some guilty, but placed their cases on file.

CURLEY RAPS RAIDS

He then made the statement from the bench that the Chinese were a law-abiding people, and while there was no doubt they sought pleasure behind barred doors, this was confined to their own class.

Last January, Mayor James M. Curley, addressing a visiting delegation of Chinese merchants accompanied by former Lieut.-Governor Seward W. Jacobs, said:

"It is about time that the police and some attorneys stopped making raids in your district upon Chinese fan-tan playing, dominoes or even poker. Until the Chinese debauch white persons, and I have no reason to believe that such a thing will occur, the police raiding squads ought to keep away from Chinatown.

"Our people should have the privilege of whatever enjoyment and pleasure can be derived from such games as they play. I have never known your people to do any harm to others.

EXPENSE TO VICTIMS

"It seems that every time that there is a safe robbery or a murder committed, the police department takes advantage of the opportunity to make a gambling raid in Chinatown. The practice ought to be stopped and I hope that it will."

This history is reviewed in some detail because a great deal of speculation was aroused as to the reason for the numerous raids, in view of the fact that but small amounts of drugs were seized and those infrequently.

In addition to the terror and annoyance caused the Chinese, including a considerable expense to replace broken doors and locks, the raids caused feuds between the two merchants' associations, the On Leong Tong and the Hip Sing Tong.

Capt. Herbert W. Goodwin of the Lagrange st. station has said he found difficulty in making peace between the warring factions, because one tong declared that the other was giving information to Garrett's squad about card games.

The practice of taking advantage of foreigners ignorant of American laws, by the police and public officials is far from new.

It was done years ago in Chinatown and was stopped by the bringing of civil suits against the police officers for false arrest and destruction of property.

The recent raids were merely a revival of a more or less ancient custom or "racket," and were no more modern than the racket itself.

It many instances the graft worked through a certain bondsman or bail commissioner who yearned to monopolize all the Chinese business.

There were two reasons for the desirability of this business. The first was that the Chinese seldom if ever default and when they do the bond is always good. The second was that the business could be handled by the lawyer and the bondsman to mutual benefit.

The bondsman in question managed to obtain quite a bit of the business through his connection with Garrett, who made the raids and suggested that the bondsman be obtained.

The bail commissioner then suggested the advisability of retaining the attorney in question if the defendants wished to escape with a small fine. It frequently happened that the same lawyer had also been suggested by members of the raiding squad.

In time the bail commissioner got the bonding business of one of the tongs and began to make quite a bit of money. His avarice, however, was the cause of his downfall, as is the case in so many other instances.

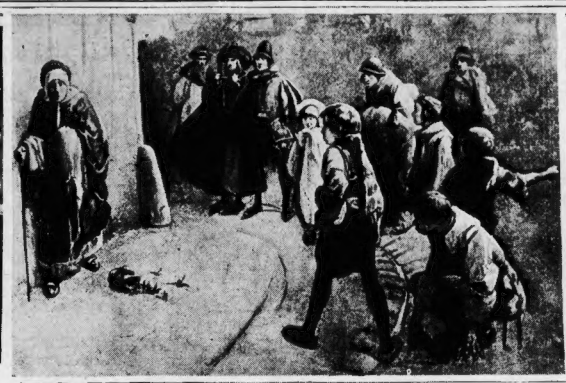
SQUAW SLEW MRS. MARCHAND TO SAVE OTHERS FROM 'WITCHING'

Henri Marchand, noted artist and sculptor of Buffalo, whose love affair is said by the state to have caused the murder of his wife.



Reproduction of famous painting by John Hassall shows reception given to old crone suspected of being in cahoots with Satan in practices of the "black art." Witchcraft, which harkens back centuries, is being revived in the trial of Lila Jimerson at Buffalo. She is alleged by the state to have used a ouija board to frighten Nancy Bowen with threats of the witches' anger to induce her to beat Mrs. Marchand to death.

Blame Auto Driver for 14 Wreck Deaths

Washington, March 26 (AP)—The operator of an auto who drove on the tracks in front of a Chicago, Northshore & Milwaukee Railroad near Kenosha, Wis., February 28, was held today by the Interstate Commerce Commission's bureau of safety to have been responsible for the resulting collision with two trains, which caused the death of 14 persons and the injury of 131.

Victim's Spell Proven by Death of Chicken

Courtroom, Buffalo, March 26 (INS)—Nancy Bowen, moon-faced, leathery-skinned old Indian woman, wearing a brown shawl around her head, resumed the stand today at the trial of Lila Jimerson, Indian spinster, charged with the hammer murder of Mrs. Clothilde Marchand, wife of Henri Marchand, noted artist, with whom Lila was in love.

The State contends Lila inspired Mrs. Bowen to commit the crime.

Old "Ma" Bowen sat stolidly in the witness chair and calmly admitted she killed Mrs. Marchand whom she was led to believe was a "witch." She is a strong believer in witchcraft and black magic. Asked if she knew what caused the death of her husband, "Sassafras Charlie" Bowen, she leaned forward and in awed tones whispered: "He was witched."

ADMITS MURDER

A hush fell over the courtroom when Dist.-Atty. Guy B. Moore, the diminutive prosecutor, asked her if she had gone to the home of Mrs. Marchand on March 6, struck her over the head with a hammer, choked her and chloroformed her.

The question was repeated to Nancy by an Indian interpreter who stood beside her at the witness chair. Her answer came in a throaty gutteral, in the Indian tongue.

The interpreter announced: "She says yes."

Old Nancy, in answer to questions put to her by the prosecutor, declared that Lila accompanied her to the Marchand home a week before the slaying and that they passed Mrs. Marchand on the street. Subsequently, she added, they were shown about the house by Mr. Marchand.

CONVINCED NANCY

Several days later, Nancy said, Lila spoke to her about the "witch" they had seen and predicted that she would drive the old woman crazy along with Anson Jimerson and Anne Snow (father and aunt of Lila).

The old woman went on to say that she became convinced of the truth of Lila's prediction when one of her chickens went "crazy" and suddenly dropped dead. She denied knowing whether Lila had fed the chicken whisky.

When she finally decided to go from the Indian reservation to Buffalo to kill "the witch," old Nancy said, Lila tried to get Aunt Snow to accompany her. When Aunt Snow refused, Lila went along herself, Nancy testified.

A wicker basket was introduced into evidence and Nancy admitted that Lila had carried it on the day of the slaying. She also declared that the basket contained the hammer, the chloroform and the "bewitched" dirt, with which the murder was accomplished.

FIVE MORE WOULD DIE

Upon direct questioning, Nancy said that Lila had told her that if she did not kill the "witch" she and five others would be killed by Sunday, March 9. She stated further that when she entered the Marchand home "to kill the witch" she thought Lila was with her, but when she got inside found that she was alone.

Nancy said she told the "witch" that Lila was out in the street and Mrs. Marchand said: "Get her and bring her in to eat."

But when Nancy went out and found Lila she refused to go in and they went to a restaurant to eat.

"We left there and walked along the street where the medium lived," Nancy testified. "We stood beside a tree. Lila stood off a piece on the sidewalk. She came to me and said a voice had said the quickest way was to do it with a hammer. Lila went into a store and bought the hammer."

LILA MAKES NOTES.

Lila, attired in a black satin dress and black felt hat, sat back in her seat regarding old Nancy contemplatively. Now and then Lila made a notation and passed it to one of her lawyers. An Indian girl friend sat next to Lila. Nearby was U. S. Atty. Richard H. Templeton, ordered by the attorney-general's office at Washington to act as a co-counsel for Lila, who is a ward of the government, as are all Indians.

Nancy then related in a low singsong voice the grim details of the murder.

Mrs. Marchand came down from upstairs. She turned on the radio. It was the first time Nancy had seen a radio.

Q.—(By Dist.-Atty. Guy B. Moore) —What happened then?

A.—I said to her: "Are you a witch?" She said yes. She was kind of smiling. I asked her if I was going to die and she said, "Yes."

Old Nancy's bland countenance failed to register the slightest emotion as she said: "I took out the hammer and hit her."

Q.—How many times did you hit her?

A.—I don't remember.

Q.—You intended to kill her?

A.—Yes, I thought she was a witch and would kill me. Lila told me she was going to kill me and also her family.

Police Chiefs Join in Praise for Reward

More leading citizens of Greater Boston today joined in praising the Boston Evening American for its offer of a reward of $5000 for information leading to convictions for graft and corruption in Boston. These individuals, like those who have previously endorsed the offer, view the reward as a sure means of laying bare whatever corruption may exist, and exposure of which, if it does exist, thousands of citizens are demanding.

Comments follow:

SEN. JOHN D. MACKAY of Norfolk District: If there is, in fact, a sinister condition back of the Garrett disclosures, the reward offered by the Boston American is likely to lay it bare, and the paper is to be congratulated on this evidence of public spirit. Whenever a serious situation has arisen in the United States, there has been a resourceful newspaper ready and willing to lend its aid.

CHIEF OF POLICE ERNEST H. Bishop of Quincy: I think that the Boston American is to be congratulated on its offer to unravel the many mysteries of the Garrett case. It is indeed a public-spirited act that will undoubtedly command much attention at this important time.

CHIEF OF POLICE HECTOR J. PELLETIER of Cohasset: The Boston Evening American's offer is a mighty good thing. It will let the public know just where everyone stands in the Garrett case. This thing has been hanging fire long enough. I should be glad to assist the American in any way I can.

REV. EDWIN L. NOBLE of the First Universalist Church, Quincy—I think that the Boston Evening American offer is a legitimate and laudable enterprise. Public morality demands the interest and co-operation of all good citizens in the matter of giving information which tends to apprehension and punishment of criminals.

MISS LILLIAN C. DIXON, president People's Protective League—We want to endorse the campaign that you have taken up on this vice crusade. It is sadly needed in Boston. The American is always the first and it starts things for us.

REV. DR. WILLIAM E. GILROY, editor of the Congregationalist—If the Boston Evening American's offer of $5000 for special information, or any other incentive, will lead to the uncovering of all that any thoughtful man knows perfectly well is somewhere concealed in the Garrett case, the result will be welcome and beneficial to the whole cause of good government.

The hope of every good citizen is that the interest aroused in this case will not cease until the whole affair has been probed to its very depth, and any malfeasance on the part of authorities or trusted officials brought to the light of day.

REP. THOMAS S. BURGIN, Norfolk District—Where there is smoke, there must be fire, and if there are any irregularities in the so-called Garrett case, I believe they will be brought to the front by the reward offer of the Boston Evening American. The American is to be congratulated on its forward step, which is an effort to clean up this situation once and for all.

REP. ARTHUR I. BURGESS, Norfolk District—The public's reaction to your offer to pay a reward in the so-called Garrett case should bring an instant response. The Boston Evening American should be congratulated in its attempt to place the responsibility.

DADS BACK BOYS IN SAW STRIKE

Oak Bluffs, March 26—The birch rod has been replaced in the high school here by a buckaw and boys ordered to saw wood as punishment for tardiness threaten to disrupt the local peace.

George Frye and Jarvis Billings have forbidden their sons to saw wood for Principal Bert Merrill and threaten to take legal measures unless their sons are admitted to school next Monday.

Meanwhile official action is held up pending return of Supt. Robert A. Martin and Principal Merrill from Maine, where they have been on vacation. In their absence the school board, consisting of Alpha Leonard, Dr. Clement Amaral and Mrs. Millie Vincent, has unanimously voted to uphold Principal Merrill.

Horace Noyes, the minister's son, who went out with the other two Boston sub station, finally thought better of it, sawed his allotted wood in the school basement and returned to the fold chastened and free.

For two months, it is claimed, tardy children have been required to sweep the schoolroom, take out ashes and saw cord wood.

"We have enough wood to saw at home," has been the complaint of disgruntled boys, but until last week when Arthur Frye, 13, and Leroy Billings, 15, flatly refused the manual labor, no organized resistance had been made.

Speaking from New York, over the National Broadcasting Co. chain, she said that "there are social problems enough boiling and seething around every woman of us to keep an army of keen thinkers and doers busy for a generation or so in order to clear them all away."

As unfinished problems she cited the wages, hours, working conditions and trade union status of the woman industry.

SIDLINGER STORY TELLS OF 'GARRETT GRAFT'

SAYS RAIDER WAS PAID BY SULLIVAN

Man Convicted in Ritz "Shakedown" Tells Warner Lawyers Are in the Ring

Further revelations of graft and vice rampant in Boston officialdom are contained in the second article by Albert K. Sidlinger appearing in today's Boston Evening American. Sidlinger, convicted in the notorious Hotel Ritz case, blames his downfall on the ring which has reaped huge fortunes through corrupt practices.

By ALBERT K. SIDLINGER.

JOHN F. SULLIVAN, the former proprietor of the Hotel Ritz, told me over a year ago that he paid Garrett $14,000 over a period of six months, beginning in the fall of 1927.

He also told me that —— telephoned to the Ritz on January 4, 1920, and demanded that seven cases of liquor be sent to his house to entertain guests at his baby's christening.

I knew that —— had a room which was used as an office for the collection of protection money from proprietors of questionable resorts and speakeasies in that district.

I know that a waiter of the hotel had keys for rooms in the hotel, which he passed out to officers of the Boston police department so that they could entertain.

I have furnished the attorney-general with the name of a man who will testify that he saw the proprietor of the Hotel Ritz give a $900 protection fee to Oliver B. Garrett.

These facts, together with others of vital importance to the Garrett inquiry, I have given to the Boston Evening American and to Atty.-Gen. Warner.

LAWYERS IN RING

I know, and I've backed my knowledge up with rock-bound evidence submitted to the attorney general how Garrett and his squad operated in Chinatown. How certain lawyers were advertised by raiding officers as the only ones to retain if the defendant's expected to get off with a fine.

I can repeat a threat Garrett made and I overheard to the effect that a man whom I had bailed on a charge of maintaining a speakeasy would be railroaded by Garrett's testimony in court if he did not retain Atty. ——.

I have submitted names of speakeasy proprietors and keepers of questionable houses who paid Garrett hundreds of dollars and were raided by him within a day or two after the payments were made.

I have given evidence that the corridors of the Suffolk County courthouse were used as salesrooms for the services of the ring lawyers, and that police officers who prosecuted the cases acted as salesmen, demanding that their prisoners retain the lawyers they represented.

I've got the inside dope on the ginger ale racket. I know the man in back of it, and the attorney-general has that information. I gave him the name of the man who was known as the head of the concern. I even gave Mr. Warner his nickname. I imagine there's no mystery in the mind of the attorney-general now as to the reason for the tremendous increases in sales of ginger ale.

That outfit had the ginger ale market cornered in Boston speakeasies. The joints HAD to buy that product just as they HAD to buy alcohol from certain favored wholesale silky barons.

The reason for the monopoly enjoyed by that particular concern is easy to discern, now that the truth of the situation has been revealed to the attorney-general.

I have given this information to th eBoston Evening American not through hope of financial gain, or for any other motive than a desire to bring to the attention of the public the rotten crookedness that is rampant in Boston.

CHANCES TO GRAFT

And also because I feel that the Boston Evening American is striving to aid the attorney-general to rid the city of crooked politicians and correct a condition that allows lawlessness, graft and corruption to flourish even among men who have sworn to uphold the laws.

I never dealt with the gang in any way when I was a bail commissioner. I had many opportunities to collect tainted money, but I stayed away from it, and no man can truthfully say otherwise.

There were cases growing out of raids on questionable resorts that I wouldn't touch for any amount of money No procurer ever obtained bail through my office.

I've had plenty of time to think this whole affair over during the year and 28 days I've been in prison. I've reviewed my whole life time and time again, and particularly after the time I first met Sullivan, owner of the Ritz Hotel. That was on Friday, the 13th, of April, 1928.

I have asked myself hundreds of times what I had done to deserve such a fate. I have never taken a dishonest dollar in my life. I was clean and above board with everybody, and my work as a bail commissioner was above suspicion.

There are many men in Boston today who have me to thank for keeping them out of trouble and setting them on the right road.

I had no criminal record. There wasn't the slightest smirch on my reputation. I had graduated from the Suffolk Law School and planned to be a lawyer.

I was working hard for success and I always tried to be straight with myself and my fellow-men. But there I was in jail starting on a two-year sentence and a fine of $500 confronting me. All for a misdemeanor of which the jury said I was guilty.

The heavy sentence must have satisfied the gang. It was the last shove they could give me on the way down and out of the way. The last move to keep my tongue bridled.

Sometimes, sitting alone in my cell here and going over the whole rotten affair, I thought I would go mad.

I couldn't get the faces of those who had persecuted me and railroaded me—those members of the gang—out of my mind, but the thought of my wife and little son kept me going.

I had no feeling of vengeance against those who had ruined my name and placed me in jail. My only concern was to get out someday and try to re-establish myself and earn a decent living for my wife and child.

They told the little fellow that I was sick in a hospital. They told him that when he asked where his daddy was. They didn't want him to know his father was a convict.

The load was lightened considerably by letters from my wife and the frequent visits she made here. She stood by me and never faltered. She encouraged me to forget the past and plan for the future. And together we planned going away to some strange place when I was released from jail, and starting life anew.

Just before Christmas, her visits and letters suddenly ceased and I learned from relatives that she was seriously ill. I paced the floor hour after hour, night after night, praying with all my heart that she would get well. I thought what misery life would be without her.

On Christmas Eve I was thinking constantly of my wife and son and just before I went to my cell I turned to a guard and said: "I have a feeling that something is wrong at home."

I couldn't sleep. I just lay there staring through the darkness and thinking of home. Just as dawn broke, Christmas morning, one of the guards came up to me and placed his arm around my shoulder. He said, "Al, I've got some sad news for you."

I just looked at him and said, "I know what it is. My wife is dead."

He couldn't answer me. He was choking with sobs.

When the full realization of my wife's tragic death burst upon me, I was afraid I would lose my reason. She died at Boston City Hospital. I would have given my life to be with her when she passed away.

If I didn't have my boy to think about, I would have given up any desire to go on living.

The master here, Mr. Mulcahy, and his officers were very kind to me. Their words of consolation had much to do with keeping me sane.

People outside a prison might think that confined men lose all their finer sensibilities, but I have found real friendship and understanding among unfortunates who have spent most of their lives behind prison walls.

The friends of my better days had deserted me. I never heard from them even by mail. But I'm not looking for compassion or mercy. I want it distinctly understood that my only motive in relating what I know about the gang and its workings is to bring to the attention of the public the extent to which those crooks will go to get an innocent man out of the way.

Naturally I had many hours to think over my trial on charges of conspiracy to extort money from Sullivan. I'd lie awake nights reviewing it step by step and all through it I could see the sinister hand of the ring.

——, the juror, was uppermost in my mind. I recalled how he sat talking with ——, a Boston police officer, and I remembered how he winked at ——, another Boston police officer, when he was drawn as a juror.

I could not understand why this man should seek to do me any harm. I did not know him at the time. I had never seen him before. But I since learned that he was once tried for a serious crime and was acquitted. Other information which I gathered about him I have turned over to the attorney-general.

(The next installment will tell of Sidlinger's intimate knowledge of the inner workings of the "gang," together with the story of Nicholas Cockinos, fellow-prisoner of Sidlinger, who will testify about graft collections from keepers of disreputable places and shed further light on the notorious Ritz case.)

BOSTON Girl's Letter

"MISS DIX, what is the secret of charm? Girls no prettier than I am are happily married with dear little homes of their own. Won't the right man ever fall in love with me—"

EVELYN S—.

HERE is the real truth, Evelyn. It is femininity in a girl that arouses a man's desire to take care of her, marry her. And this adorable quality of true womanly charm can be yours as it can be every girl's!

But first of all, you must feel your own dainty, captivating femininity before you can impress others.

Confidence of Charm

Clothes can help to give a girl this happy self-confidence of charm. Especially all the dainty, most feminine part of a girl's wardrobe, her lingerie, negligees, hosiery.

Lovely, soft colorful underthings—lacy and shimmering—sheer, delicate hosiery—they make you feel so utterly feminine. Irresistible! You have faith in your inherent charm as a woman and because you have confidence in yourself, you impress others—for confidence is contagious.

But girls sometimes say, "It is so difficult to keep lovely underthings looking wonderful, colorful as new—frequent washings take away color and charm."

It is true that just ordinary "good" soaps do take out some of the color along with the dirt. But this will never be the case if you wash them always in Lux. Lux is made especially to keep colors vibrantly alive, to preserve the soft, dainty texture of sheer fabrics.

MOREOVER—NOT ONLY CAN DAINTY, colorful lingerie bring you confidence of feminine charm, but your surroundings can help you! Pretty curtains, slip covers, cushions, colorful table linens, all form part of the magic spell, when they are kept ever lovely with LUX.

DOROTHY DIX

After 12 Lux washings —every thread in place, silk and lace fibres intact, color intact. The garment retains all the charm of new.

After 12 washings with an ordinary "good" soap—silk fibres a little out of place—lace damaged. Lustre impaired—color off.

If it's safe in water, it's safe in LUX!

CANADIAN SAYS RUM CONTROL IS FAILURE

Washington, March 26 (AP)—Canada's experience with government control of liquor was cited today at the House judiciary committee prohibition hearing as a warning to the United States not to embark upon such a plan.

E. C. Drury, a former premier of the Ontario provincial government, testifying for the group supporting the 18th amendment, asserted that whatever the solution of the drink problem may be, it is not in government control.

He took the stand after John J. Lentz, president of the American Insurance Union, with headquarters in Columbus, O., submitted insurance statistics which he argued showed the dry statute had proved of widespread benefit.

Lentz, one-time member of the House from Ohio, said mortality had decreased under prohibition and that the abstainer from alcoholic beverages usually paid four more annual insurance premiums than the drinker.

DRYS ASK MORE TIME

Today's hearing was the first this week. The drys had been expected to conclude presentation of their case, but at the outset F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, announced they would like at least two more days. The committee did not pass upon the request at the time, but Chairman Graham has said the committee would give both antis and drys ample opportunity to present their views.

Before either Lentz or Drury took the stand, Representative Hadley, Republican, Washington, read a telegram from J. Donovan of Bellingham, Wash., asserting the Dollar ships did not permit the sale of liquor as has been charged at previous committee sessions.

Lentz declared the Methodists and other Protestants had repudiated the saloon and alcoholic beverages while the "Catholic Church, through some of its most noble leaders, has spoken against the liquor traffic."

CITES BISHOP CASSIDY

"For instance," he went on, "the world famous Cardinal Mercier of Belgium spoke upon the subject in these heroic words:

"'Universal prohibition would save more lives than general disarmament.'"

He also quoted the Rt. Rev. James E. Cassidy, vicar-general of the diocese of Fall River, elevated today to be a bishop, as having spoken in "courageous language" in support of prohibition.

Lentz described Patrick Callahan of Louisville, Ky., as one of the foremost Catholics in the country and said he was taking an active part in the prohibition controversy. The Kentuckian, he added, was mustering the dry Catholics to support the 18th amendment.

The Ohioan said because prohibition enforcement had its problems and its difficulties should not for a moment deter us in the onward march toward complete sobriety."

"Every argument for more alcohol is an argument for more drunkards," he continued.

Senate Gets Canadian Liquor Cargo Bill

Heineman Must Pay Wife $400 a Month

Los Angeles, March 26 (AP)—Edward Heineman, retired broker and one of the founders of the New York Curb Exchange, must pay Mrs. Louis Heinemen $400 a month and $1500 counsel fees pending settlement of their marital difficulties. Mrs. Heineman recently countered Heineman's annulment suit with a suit for divorce. They were married last August shortly after Heineman's first wife died. Four days later they separated.

LOVE SUICIDE'S LAST THOUGHT OF HIS WIFE

Vienna, March 26 (AP)—Although Dr. Herman (Ernst) Watzl, chemist and inventor, died in a suicide pact with another woman his last thoughts were of his wife and two children at home in Cleveland, O.

The exact time of the firing of the shots which first killed his bigamous bride, formerly Mrs. Mary McGranahan of Cleveland, and then himself, has not been determined, but it is believed it was just before midnight Sunday, when time for the payment of Watzl's life insurance premiums expired.

A letter to a Vienna intimate, found near the body of Watzl as it lay in a dowdy room of the Hotel Sacher, contained this passage:

"Knowing the custom of insurance companies I realized that my wife would be unable to cash my policy of $35,000 unless she could establish my death officially. But I also knew that the claim would fail if my premiums were not paid regularly to my death.

"Then I remembered the insurance installment falling due tomorrow, which I am unable to meet. Thus my wife will be robbed unless I die today. I am therefore going today, before the premium is due."

In another note Watzl and Mary McGranahan asked that they be cremated together.

FISHING THAT IS FISHING

San Diego, Calif., March 26 (AP)—The crew of the good ship Navigator, a fishing clipper, was home today telling about a run of giant tuna with such voracious appetites that they bit at tin cans, bare hooks and pieces of cloth.

The fishermen brought back 130 tons of yellow fin tuna. The big fish were taken off Cocos Island in the Pacific, 2400 miles south of San Diego.

So ravenous were the big tuna that the fishermen threw away the 150,000 sardines which they had taken along as bait. Fish were caught faster than they could be put in refrigeration and man collapsed from the heat if they worked more than three hours at a stretch.

DAILY ANTIQUE

No. 55

There are plenty of solemn historians who claim that Paul Revere never depended upon a lantern-signal from the belfry of Old North Church, or that the Old North Church wasn't standing at the time, or that the signal came from Christ Church, which might not have been the present Christ Church. They say that he didn't reach Concord and didn't start from Charlestown. So far, no one has tried to say he didn't ride a horse, but the chances are that someone will dig up a one-horse shay or an ancient flivver and try to prove that the memorable night ride took place in such a vehicle.

At any rate, here's a Paul Revere lantern. That's the name these old-timers go by. They are much in demand for decorative purposes, and the practice is to substitute electric wiring for the original one-candle-power illumination. This lantern, in its original state, is owned by George Woodruff of 42 Northgate pk., West Newton. It comes from an old house at Damariscotta, Me.

In connection with the Massachusetts Tercentenary Year, the Boston Evening American is publishing daily photographs of interesting antiques. Owners of genuine antiques, particularly of Colonial or early American origin or of historic association are invited to forward photographs and records for publication. WOMEN SEEK EQUALITY IN PROFESSIONS

By NANCY BREWSTER

If the protectors of women in industry anticipate extending their activities to include women in the professions and business life, they will meet resistance from the National Woman's Party, an organization dedicated to equal rights for women.

Plans for concentrated resistance to the move were launched at a meeting of the Massachusetts branch of the party at a meeting at the home of Mrs. Alice Moulton, Beacon st.

The so-called special labor laws for women, already contended as unfair and unjust to women in industry by the National Woman's Party, will be further combatted by the feminist leaders whose goal at present is to amend the Constitution with the equal rights for women as for men.

Believing this to be the only complete emancipation for woman, Mrs. J. Norman Smith of New York, at the Boston meeting, pleaded for equal opportunities with equal compensation for women in all fields.

If the special labor laws for women are extended to include protective legislation for all women, restrictive in aim and purpose, Mrs. Smith stated, it would be a serious thing for the wage-earning women in professional and business life.

10,000 IN PARTY

Ten thousand women have joined the ranks of the National Woman's Party, non-partisan in purpose, Mrs. Smith explained, and political in so far as it enables the women to realize laws equal to women and men.

"We want equal recognition of the value of women, that they might join with the men in making serious and progressive contributions to humanity," Mrs. Smith continued.

She pointed out that in some states women were obliged to pay alimony to husbands; that in some states, a wife was criminally liable for the support of the families; that in others women were denied the right to make contracts or participate in legal affairs.

The Equal Rights Bill if passed, she said, would not touch the widow's pension or Shepard-Towner laws.

Amending the Constitution with the Equal Rights Bill, is only to assure permanency to the progress of women, she said.

The Massachusetts branch recorded itself in favor of the recognition of the nationality of women, asking that such favorable action be taken at the Hague Conference.

Miss Rebecca Harwich, also of New York, and a field worker of the party, told of her recent European trend while in every country, without exception, the economic position of women was the most stressing problem.

Oriental women were being slowly but surely emancipated, she stated, and the men were enjoying the emancipation.

"It pays for Oriental women to enjoy the advantages of progressive womanhood, since Oriental men are beginning to appreciate them the more for it."

Dedicated to the freedom of women, the National Woman's Party in this State will embark upon a campaign to remove discriminations against woman in the law, since 83,000 women of Boston, active in the city's business affairs, are liable to such legislative protection.

Mrs. William Pell opened the meeting, outlining the history of the party and the purposes of its creation.

WOMEN'S REPUBLICAN CLUB OF MALDEN

"As good citizens, we Republican women should think of 'dress beautiful' as well as of 'homes beautiful' and 'cities beautiful,'" reads the notice of this organization announcing that at the meeting on Friday evening at 7:45 p. m. at the Malden Electric Co. Mrs. Elsie K. Chamberlain, chairman of the department of art of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, will talk on "Dressing to Your Type."

Mrs. Ralph M. Kirtland, chairman of legislation, will give a five-minute talk on current legislation; Mrs. Howard Briggs on law enforcement; Miss Hazel Curnane Gow, chairman of the New Voters' Unit, on the activities of her committee.

The president, Mrs. Emma Fall Schofield, will preside and introduce them, also Mrs. Frank A. Wood, who, assisted by Miss Mildred Curnane, will present a spring fashion show. Mrs. Wesley F. Dickey is hostess for the evening.

WOMEN'S CITY CLUB

Prof. Henry Wadsworth Longfellow Dana of Cambridge will be the dinner guest of the club tomorrow evening at 6:30 p. m. He is to speak on "The Theater of Today." Prof. Dana recently returned from Russia where he made a study of the Russian theater.

Tailored Suits Should Be Feminized by Softer Lines

IT'S QUITE right to be tailored this season if the tailoring is of exactly the right sort. This erstwhile masculine fashion must be feminized by fitted lines, softening details and flaring skirt.

The suit pictured is delightfully youthful and smart—it is "Telga," a fine wool material in a bright blue shade, the skirt with circular front fullness, the coat wrist length, softly and beautifully tailored. The waist line is indicated by nipped-in tucks at the sides and back, the small tucks repeated on the shoulders, and fastened at center front waistline, by a short tab belt and small buckle. The cuffs have link buttons, and the notched collar and lapels stress the tailored effect.

THE tuck-in blouse is of Ivory crepe, its inserted bow forming a front-frill. The brimmed hat is of Baku in the same tone, the crown enhanced by a design of tucking, and completed by bow and band of grosgrain ribbon.

The silver fox scarf is the chic complement to any costume, and the one shown is especially fluffy and beautifully marked, with its silver sheen, and white tipped tail. Pull on suede gloves and plain pumps complete this smart ensemble.

The blue suit, depending on the shade of blue, may benefit from an accent of a subtle lighter blue, or from a blouse of apricot crepe de chine or mull-colored striped shirting silk.

Colored Blouse Right for Wear With Spring Suit

wear with your 1930 suit is not a very fashion-conscious attitude this spring. Color is one of the most important details to watch when choosing either suit or ensemble—and the color of a blouse may make or mar the whole effect. Some of the most delightful color combinations have been achieved with the new suits—surprising alliances that you may not have ever considered, but which cleverly result in charming effects.

ABOUT the only thing on which one can risk hasty shopping this spring is a handkerchief. Everything else from hat to shoe must be selected when one is in a really serious shopping attitude. Else what errors—what misfits!

This is what the long skirt has done. Hasn't it affected footwear—just! And what mustn't one know about line to be wise enough to choose the opera pump for wear with more than one of one's longer frocks.

THE classically simple pump—which may have a harmonizing or contrasting banding or applique—is leader for afternoon and evening. Following next in step, for the same occasions, is the slipover with one very narrow strap. This may also have appliques or bandings.

The eyelet blucher oxford is in the smart class for semi-formal wear and the shoe for sports may be a pump, an oxford or a strap slipper—in any case having the solid leather heel of sensible height.

Bridge Aids Flower Mission

A BRIDGE PARTY FOR THE benefit of the Benevolent Fraternity Fruit and Flower Mission, which has its headquarters at Horticultural Hall, is being held at the home of Miss Rose L. Dexter, Beacon st., today. Miss Dexter and Mrs. Dean S. Luce are presiding at the tea tables, and are being assisted by a group of Junior League girls, under the direction of Miss Katherine Cunningham Gray. Mrs. Frederick W. Stockman of Sharon is chairman of the committee in charge, and is assisted by Mrs. Luce, of Canton, Mrs. Travers Carman of Newton, and Mrs. Lewis A. Elliott, executive secretary of the Fruit and Flower Mission. The exhibits of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society will be turned over to the mission for distribution, at the end of the spring show being held in the Horticultural Hall this week. The mission is busy making plans for the summer. On June 1 the organized hamper work will open for the 62nd consecutive season.

NOBLE MUSIC SUPERBLY RENDERED

By MOSES SMITH

The fourth concert of the Brahms Festival at Symphony Hall had an unusual program, featured an extraordinary collection of artists and was heard by a remarkable audience. All in all it was one of the most thrilling experiences we have ever had in the concert hall.

To describe it in detail we should weary the reader, for it is more pleasant to talk than to listen. Let us mention the highlights.

Dr. Archibald T. Davison and G. Wallace Woodworth seated at the piano playing six of the "Leibeslieder" waltzes while a picked group from their Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society sang the four vocal parts. Lovely, enchanting music, carefully prepared, beautifully rendered.

Arthur Schnabel, German pianist, who electrified the audience at Sunday's concert, now playing four piano pieces of Opus 119—three Intermezzi in B minor, E minor and C major, and the Rhapsody in E-flat major. Here is the heroic Brahms, more often the musing, introspective Brahms of the later years. Played with extraordinary poetry and verve by Schnabel. Without in the slightest degree "nursing" an ovation, Schnabel was turbulently applauded for several minutes.

One might have feared thereafter an anti-climax. But the wondrous Margaret Matzenauer came on to sing four songs—"Sapphische Ode," "Von Ewiger Liebe," "Immer Leiser" and "Meine Liebe ist Grun." One of the great voices of the generation, plied by a born artist, matched with a prodigious temperament. As if these were not enough, there was the self-effacing Schnabel playing magnificent accompaniments.

After the intermission, the Piano Quintet in F minor, work of symphonic scope of Brahms' youth, when he was not writing symphonies. The performance was dominated by Schnabel who made one forget for the time everything that had preceded. The Burgin String Quartet, striving to project their tones into the furthest reaches of the great auditorium, did noble work. An unforgettable concert.

18,000 MILES OF ROAD RUN BY 2 BROTHERS

New York, March 26 (AP)—The New York Times said today that by recent deals O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen of Cleveland have rounded out a railroad empire that is the largest privately owned one in the world.

Their $2,000,000,000 18,000-mile network is exceeded in the western hemisphere by the 20,000 miles of the Canadian National Railways and elsewhere only by the 30,000 miles of the German State Railways. It eclipses those of such systems associated with the names of Gould, Vanderbilt, Hill and Harriman.

The railroad influence of the Van Sweringens extends from New York to Salt Lake City and from Chicago and St. Louis to Omaha, El Paso, Galveston and New Orleans. A line controlled by a friendly interest connects the system with San Francisco.

The brothers entered the railroad world in 1916, when they purchased the then broken-down Nickel Plate road from the New York Central for $2,000,000 in cash and $6,500,000 in notes.

Today they control directly the Chesapeake & Ohio, the Erie and the Nickel Plate. Through the Alleghany Corporation and by other means they control the Hocking Valley, the Pere Marquette, the Wheeling & Lake Erie, the Missouri Pacific and the Chicago & Eastern Illinois.

TOOTH PULLER ENDS HIS LIFE

Springfield, Mo., March 26 (AP)—Elwyn Bentley, 60, wealthy retired bank president, whose hobby for pulling women's teeth caused his arrest in St. Louis last week, was found shot to death in a bathtub at his palatial residence here last night. A bullet wound in the head was apparently inflicted with suicidal intent.

Bentley was to face Mrs. Mildred Franklin's complaint charging him with illegally practising dentistry in St. Louis Friday. Mrs. Rankin, who is 25, declared Bentley extracted three of her teeth without permission after he asked to clean her teeth.

Bentley, who sold his bank about 15 years ago, told police he had been practising dentistry in an "unprofessional way" since that time and estimated he had treated 200 women without charge.

Girls Return After New England 'Tour'

Helen Poppard of Hanover st., and Mary Gallagher of Franklin st., both of Lynn and each 16 years of age, are at home today telling how they toured New England by "thumbing" rides on autos and trucks.

They had been sought all through the state by their folks and their descriptions broadcast to police all over the East.

Short Skirts? Yes, but Only Mornings

New York, March 26 (AP)—Jean Patou is back from Paree, enthusiastic over the "new Diana type" of beautiful American girl except for the way she dresses.

Long skirts morning, noon and night! Ouf! Jean says they should be short in the morning and lengthen as the day grows.

King to Hold First Levee Since Illness

London, March 26 (AP)—King George plans to hold a levee at Buckingham Palace tomorrow, the first since his illness and the first at Buckingham Palace since 1913. Levees hitherto have been held at St. James, which is at present given over to the naval conference.

Is Mother of Eight

"The first year after I got married I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because I was so weak that the minute I would start to do something I would feel badly. It did me a lot of good. Since then I have taken the Vegetable Compound off and on whenever I needed it. I am now the mother of eight children and I still recommend this medicine for it makes me feel younger and stronger."—Mrs. Oreance Godfrey, 103 Cumberland Street, Woonsocket, Rhode Island.

BISHOPS MEET TO ELECT P. E. PRIMATE

Chicago, March 26 (AP)—Bishops of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the United States gathered today to elect a primate to succeed the late Charles P. Anderson, bishop of Chicago.

Fifteen or more have been mentioned as possible primates. Two whose names were heard frequently before the balloting began were Bishop James D. Ferry, of Rhode Island, and Bishop Hugh L. Burleson, of South Dakota, assessor to the primacy of Bishop Anderson.

Since the primate elected today only serves until the Denver meeting in 1931, it was frequently predicted that an older bishop—possibly Thomas F. Gailor of Tennessee—might be chosen.

NOTED FRENCH FLIER COMING TO BOSTON

A band played the Marseillaise as a crowd bade him farewell.

The count plans to hop off from El Paso tomorrow for Los Angeles, fly Saturday to San Francisco and on Monday to Salt Lake City.

He expects to arrive in New York about April 10, then fly to Boston and to Canada.

He will return to France in the middle of May. He recently made an air trip in South America.

New England Industries

MERRIMAC SAYS:

"Many of our customers do not maintain a staff of chemists. They rely on us to furnish prompt service and advice in the handling of chemical problems as they arise.

"By means of the telephone we are able to determine exactly what type of advice is wanted. The proper man from our staff of industrial chemists can then be sent out immediately.

"Good telephone service is invaluable in this type of work."

MANUFACTURERS who ship their products by motor-truck know that full loads are needed to make such distribution profitable. "Part-loads" may be sent as a special service to customers, but it isn't always a paying proposition.

Telephone selling is often a cure for the "part-load." In the case of the Merrimac Chemical Company, for instance, it proves very profitable.

This company, for 75 years suppliers of industrial chemicals to Eastern manufacturers, maintains "trucking zones" for the accommodation of its New England customers.

Its motor-trucks cover definite routes at frequent intervals. On the day before a truck leaves, if it has not a full load, a salesman calls by telephone various customers along the route. In every case, the load is completed by this telephone selling.

Is the "part-load" proposition sapping the profits in your business? If so, telephone selling may be the means of making your motor-truck service profitable. We would like an opportunity to tell you how to do it.

ARMY TO STAGE BIG PAGEANT

Chicago, March 26 (INS)—Every branch of the U. S. Army service, including airplanes, tanks, artillery, infantry, cavalry, chemical warfare and signal corps, will take part in a huge military tournament and exposition in Soldiers Field, June 21 to June 28.

This announcement was made today by Maj.-Gen. Frank Parker, commander of the Sixth Corps Area. The proceeds will be turned over to the Army Relief Society, which aids widows and orphans of regular army soldiers.

The village of Chateau-Thierry will be reproduced, and the famous battle of that name presented in every detail. More than 60 army planes will take part and pageants and drills in native costumes will be staged by large national groups from Chicago.

Democrats Rout G.O.P. in Kansas City

Kansas City, March 26 (AP)—In the first test of strength since the 1928 Hoover-Smith fight, Kansas City Democrats, led by Bryce B. Smith, millionaire bakery executive, yesterday completely routed Republican candidates for all municipal offices.

Approximately 146,000 voters, the greatest number ever to visit the polls in an exclusively city election, ended all vestige of Republican power.

Pillsbury Freed From N. H. Prison

Concord, N. H., March 26 (AP)—Hobart Pillsbury, former secretary of state, who last year pleaded guilty to having converted $6000 in state funds to his own use, was released from state prison here today. He had served 330 days of a minimum sentence of 18 months. The remainder was accounted for by good behavior.

Girl Swimmer Sets Backstroke Record

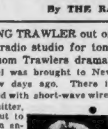
At the Radio Dial

By THE RADIO EDITOR

A FISHING TRAWLER out of the port of Boston will be turned into a radio studio for tonight's presentation of the weekly Forty Fathom Trawlers dramatic series.

The vessel was brought to New York, a few days ago. There it was equipped with short-wave wireless transmitter, and sent out to sea with an engineering, announcing and dramatic staff prepared to produce a program of unusual character for radio listeners to night. The drama, which goes on the air at 8:30 over WNAC and other Columbia stations, is written and produced by James Whipple, author of the entire series.



James Whipple

Whipple also takes part as leading actor in the weekly dramas. The vessel, which is the scene of tonight's realistic broadcast, is the Sagamore, one of the fleet operated by the Bay State Fishing Co.

THE AUTHORS of the weekly Seconyland Sketches know their rural New England well, 30 or 40 years back. The playlets are supposed to be laid in the present, but actually in edalogic, the situations and the psychology are of the early part of the present century at the latest. Simplicity is the key to their success. That, and characteristic touches like Uncle Dan'ls remarks to his horse at night. "Git up, ye old devil. You can always depend on a horse that wants his oats to git ye home in good time." And again. "Now, don't slobber over me, dany ye. Munch on that bit instead of my hand if ye want somethin' to munch on."

FLYING SCHOOL PLANS BUSY SEASON

By GEORGE HAMBLIN

After a winter of inactivity, so far as flying goes, Merrimack Valley Airways, of Newburyport, is having the Stinson-Detroiter cabin monoplane checked over and plans to put it in service shortly after April 1, according to James Dickens, president of the company.

In addition to looking over various types of open-cockpit biplanes for use in the flying school, company officials are inspecting sites for an airport. The field used last season has ran into a snag in the development line and unless this situation is cleaned up, another location must be found.

Newburyport Airport, as the field was called last year, is on the main road to Haverhill, about a mile out of town and, although not too large, can be used if need be. Dickens and his chief pilot and instructor, Ensign Earl Crabb, don't relish the idea of giving the field up, because of its central location and facilities for enlargement. A plot bordering the field, it is understood, cannot be obtained so the boys are on the watch for another location.

While no air lines are being planned by Merrimack Airways, a taxi service will be available at all times, using the Stinson. Complete ground and flying school courses are being planned and "Bossy" Gillis' town will be well represented in the flying business this year.

Stricken Star

RENEE ADOREE IN SANITARIUM

Los Angeles, March 26 (AP)—Suffering from a severe throat and bronchial affection, Renee Adoree, film actress, today was confined in a La Crescenta, Calif., sanitarium. Dr. Patrick J. Byrne said her condition was not serious, but no visitors will be allowed to see the actress at present. He said she probably will remain in the sanitarium until August for a complete rest.

Friends said the actress had been suffering from a bad cold for several months, and it became suddenly worse recently while she was on a trip to Mexico City.

Tax Collections Less Than in 1929

Washington, March 26 (AP)—The Treasury reported today that income collections for March 24 were $14,845,685, making total collections as of that date $532,648,716.

The total for the month, however, was about $34,000,000 less than collected in the same number of days last year. With six more business days left in the month, it was predicted the total of the March income tax collections would total less than $350,000,000, a drop of approximately $51,000,000 from last year.

Grove's Laxative BROMO QUININE Tablets

Successful Since 1889

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards prepared Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and calomel's oldest enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid liver.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel—just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative, safe and pleasant.

No griping in the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling — sick headache — torpid liver — constipation — you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets.

Statesmen Studdy Fer Speling Be

"Has anybody in Washington or vicinity a copy of Heinee' blue backed speller, edition of 1900?"

This plaint has gone out from Ray Tucker, one of the contestants in the National Press Club spelling bee next Saturday evening between club members and Congressmen which will be sent out over the Columbia Broadcasting System.

The words on which the schoolmaster, Senator Moses of Ohio, will try to trip up the spellers will be taken from Heinee' book, says Tucker writes: "Members of the Press Club team—especially the author of this appeal—have been out by Prof. Fess and Rep. Robert Luce of "Massichesetts."

Several "copeys" of the book are in the Congressional Library, but Tucker understands these have been taken out by Prof. Fess and Rep. Robert Luce of "Massichesetts."

Letters From Readers

Something to Think About

Editor Boston American:

Those who know the Rev. James Whitcomb Brougher are rejoicing that he is coming to be pastor of Tremont Temple, succeeding the Rev. Dr. J. C. Massee, who resigned last June.

He is one of the most powerful and influential preachers in the Baptist denomination. You cannot help listening to his sermons. He knows the art of making them interesting to the average person. He has been in Boston often. About 10 years ago he was making addresses in Tremont Temple and stirred up quite a con-roversy here on Modernism, of which he is not very fond, but like mustard gas he is more than inclined to leave it alone.

After officiating at the marriage of Mary Pickford to Douglas Fairbanks, he found the smoke of controversy whirling around him, but he soon dissolved it with his quick wit and repartee. He will be a great addition to Boston clergy.

Surprised at Talk of Governor Allen

Editor Boston American:

Many of us were surprised that Governor Allen should have designated John Winthrop, first Governor of Massachusetts, as having the material in him to be an excellent newspaper man. The Governor said this over the radio.

No newspaper man would ever have treated Anne Hutchinson as Governor Winthrop did this woman. He accused her of holding unseemly meetings in her own home and justifying Dr. Wheelright's Fast Day sermon and Boston petition. Governor Winthrop looked at Mrs. Hutchinson, undertrial, and pointed out that "magistrates were fathers of the Commonwealth, and that in criticising their conduct of affairs she was disobeying God's command." O piffle!

Governor Winthrop shamelessly overrode religious toleration and civic liberty in New England. Governor Allen, with all due respect to his opinions, should know no newspaper man would have treated Anne Hutchinson as Governor Winthrop is reported to have done. E. H. L.

Defender of War Defends It Again

Editor Boston American:

My defense of war has drawn fire from a Walpole correspondent in your Letter Column. He seems to think I want war. Far from it. But as long as human nature is what it is, we will have war. We may ward it off for some time by treaties, but we cannot eradicate it from human nature any more than we can a disease. The fighting instinct is natural to a human being. It may be held in abeyance at times, but it only slumbers.

I know something of the horrors of war, probably more than your correspondent. We can't get rid of murder, at least, it would appear so from reading the daily newspapers. What individuals do, nations will do. Individuals murder, so will nations congregate to murder by the wholesale. If you get rid of individual murder, you may be nearer to getting rid of war.

My critic says: "I do not use my brains." Well, that is my trouble? I use them too much and consequently have to love peace but fear, nevertheless, war.

HENRY GOODFELLOW

Liberal Education Without College

Editor Boston American:

Do any of your readers want a liberal education in Boston? Just stay in the Hub for six months, attend all the lectures with a notebook in hand and you will pick up more useful information than can be obtained in any city of this country.

I have verified my assertion. For months I have attended lectures, and addresses in this city. For instance, I heard Dr. Reinhold Niebuhur of New York say this week: "All good people are more or less hypocrites." That's a fact. Then another said: "No live business enterprise has room for knockers and know-it-alls. Their mental attitude is boring and cynical." Again: "A conceited man in any business is a difficult man to train. This man cannot see beyond his nose." Again: "Narrow-minded men are blood relatives with so-called reformers"

I have hundreds of other sayings picked up from addresses and talks that are succulent with wisdom. Just take in the Lowell lectures and see how your head can swell with knowledge. You can get knowledge in Boston without attending college that will give you practical education.

Col. Tudor's Action Routed British Fleet

Editor Boston American:

Here is some history that cannot be overlooked during the Tercentenary. Col. John Tudor led George Washington's army from Readville to Dorchester Heights, a distance of 10 or more miles, dragging their cannon into the dark night, while Gen. Washington went to New York on the evening of March 16, 1776. In the morning when the British naval officers rose and went on deck they saw the bay surrounded with cannon. They then hoisted sail and went away. On the recent 154th anniversary the grave of Col. John Tudor in King's Chapel cemetery was not visited by anyone representing the state or Boston. At least, a wreath should have been placed on his grave March 17.

On his tomb today are these words:

No. 13, John Tudor:
"My flesh shall slumber in the ground
Till the last trumpet's joyful sound,
Then burst the chains with sweet surprise,
And in my Saviour's image rise."

Sees Importance of Old Age Security

Editor Boston American:

We Americans think we are pioneers in every movement of progress. We boast that America means "opportunity," which Emerson once proclaimed, but let's see. I believe that Bishop McConnell of the Methodist Church said lately: "We are the only nation in the world today which still ruthlessly leaves its unfortunate aged to the care of charity or sends them to the poorhouse which separate husbands and wives into different institutions, where they have to associate with criminals and derelicts."

The American Society for Old Age Security is doing some good. Four states enacted old age pension laws in 1929. New York is studying this matter and will report favorably upon it.

Massachusetts is thinking about it and something definite along these lines may be expected. But this matter deserves immediate attention. People in general should give it more consideration and publicity.

MYRON T. CLAPP

Objects to Insults of Court Officers

Editor Boston American:

Has it come to pass that a citizen has to put up with insulting remarks of civil court officers? I took a visiting friend to hear Judge Adlow's session on March 20, and while seated in the courtroom was approached by a court officer and advised, if I had not a summons and was not a witness in any case, to "get out and get out now."

Is it coming to a point where a citizen and taxpayer cannot exercise his rights in a place where justice, above all things, is supposed to prevail? When this occurred there were plenty of vacant seats in the court. Do officers of this sort consider the fact that we pay their salaries? I cannot be the only one that this has happened to; if there are others, let us hear from them.

VERITAS.

Says People Should Do More Walking

Editor Boston American:

Yes, people should do more walking. The reason their legs are getting weak is for the very reason N. H. L., who wrote in this column, said.

Everybody should take long walks. I only wish more people enjoyed long walks. I am planning to take another long hike this May, when the Barnaca and Philatheas hold their annual state convention at Haverhill. This is about a 40-mile walk from Winthrop. It may be a tiresome task, but I really believe it does the body a lot of good.

WINTHROP'S GOOD BOY.

RABBI WISE HITS 'BOYCOTT' ON JEWS IN U. S.

Providence, March 26—A "damnably cruel boycott against Jews" exists in America today, Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of New York told a gathering that filled Temple Beth Israel for his lecture on, "If I Were a Christian."

Comity and understanding among Jews and Christians can never be "until we achieve the Christianizing of Christendom and develop the self-respect of the Jews," he said.

"Any Jesus of this day would find infinitely more at which to revolt than did the Jesus of the year 30.

WILL PRESENT FIGURES

"Wherever a large number of Jews dwell—in New York, Chicago, Cleveland—there is a silent, quiet, but damnably more effective economic boycott against them.

"It will not be many months before I give facts and figures, for I am now making a serious study of this unbearable burden.

"In a great many public and semi-public organizations, Jews cannot find employment because they are Jews. With tens of thousands of Jews unable to find employment, with corporations and industrial combinations becoming larger, in a short time the Jew will be more and more shut out of the great manufacturing institutions of American life.

"If I were a Christian, I would be just to the Jew and I would make Christianity Christian."

AMERICA "FAILS" RACE

Liberal opinion in America "failed us" after the ravages in Palestine last fall, he said.

"I am not interested in social prejudices, they're wholesome," he continued. "Henry Ford has done more for the Jews than all the rabbis in America.

"We've tried for 4000 years to make good Jews of ourselves and the Christians have only had 1900 years. Let us be frank and admit that we have just as hard a job being true to Judaism as the Christian does to his faith."

German Cabinet in Split on Finances

Berlin, March 26 (AP)—The Reichstag was buzzing with rumors this morning that the Cabinet might resign today because the Government coalition parties cannot agree on the financial program of Dr. Paul Moldenhauer, finance minister. The chief point of controversy is unemployment insurance. The Socialists desire to maintain the present doles, while the Populists want the door left open for possible lowering.

Gambling Leads to Ban on Carnivals

Concord, N. H., March 26—Excessive gambling at itinerant carnivals has caused the police board of this city to ban licenses this year to entertainments of that type. In addition to that charge, local authorities allege the traveling shows take too much money away from the city and render too little return to organizations sponsoring their appearance.

BOSTON BALMY AS MIDWEST 'DIGS OUT'

While the Middle West battled snowdrifts today, following its fresh blizzard, Boston and New England basked in the warmth of a spring day, with a probability that the balmy period will linger.

Five deaths were reported out of the blizzard, the center of which was in Chicago, where it was still snowing at 9 a. m.

In Pittsburgh a 12-year-old record was broken when the weather bureau thermometers registered a temperature of 25 degrees, the lowest on record since March 28, 1918.

The unseasonal but spectacular thunderstorm that crashed and reverberated over Greater Boston during the night, removed the last vestige of chill from the air locally.

It was a decidedly virile thunderstorm, with an accompanying deluge and with two reports made of lightning striking. One was from South Byfield, where a bolt crashed the First Congregational Church, starting a fire that destroyed the building with a loss of $40,000.

The other was from Gloucester, where a three-story wooden building occupied by the Russia Cement Company was destroyed by fire after being struck by lightning. The damage was estimated at $10,000.

MARCH 26 RECORD 79.

A storm area of marked intensity over the lake region caused the weather bureau at Washington today to post storm warnings north of Atlantic City to Boston.

If the storm hits here, it may become a bit cooler tonight, but the temperature drop will not be marked.

At 9 a. m. the official mercury reading in the Hub was 53 degrees and the temperature was still forcing the red up in the tube.

This reading was not a record for this date, however, as on March 26, 1922, the thermometer registered 79 degrees for a maximum.

HEAVY SNOWFALL

Today, at Chicago, where the surprise blizzard piled up 10 inches of snow, impassable streets were being cleared and auto highways were being dug out.

On the lower Great Lakes shipping was held in port because of the angry waves out where the water was being hit by the sweep of the still strong wind.

In Ohio early today the blizzard was still raging.

Dwight Davis' Uncle Dies

Istanbul, Turkey, March 26 (AP)—The body of Dwight Filley of St. Louis, uncle of Dwight Davis, Governor of the Philippines, was shipped today to New York. Filley died of pneumonia at the age of 78.

Ford Sends Letter of Sympathy to Mellie and Gram

Norway, Me., March 26—Letters and telegrams of sympathy are flooding Mellie Dunham and his almost equally famous wife, "Gram" Dunham.

A rub in Ohio wired they were sending money to Mellie but the check will go back with Mellie's thanks.

On the top of their pile of letters and telegrams is one which came from the private secretary of Henry Ford, expressing personal regrets from the famous manufacturer to Mellie and "Gram" because of their fire loss.

DUCHESS OWES $4,000,000

Klagenfurt, Carinthia, Austria, March 26 (AP)—The Duchess Olga Leuchtenberg, who last year purchased an immense forest at St Leonhardt in the Levant valley and took up residence in the far-famed haunted castle of "The White Lady," made a declaration of insolvency today.

Her liabilities are about $4,000,000 and the failure is understood to have been caused by the heavy expenses of maintaining the estate.

The duchess is a direct descendant of Napoleon's stepson, Eugene Beauharnais, on one side, and the Russian Emperor Nicholas I on the other.

FIVE DEATHS IN RECORD SNOW

Chicago, March 26 (INS)—With five deaths reported, Chicago's March blizzard broke all existing records for the city today when the snow, which had been falling since 11:25 p. m. Monday night, attained an official depth of 16 inches. The previous record snowfall was 14.5 inches, set on Jan. 7, 1918.

Reports filtering in from other parts of Illinois, as well as from Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin and other nearby states, told of impassable highways and complete lack of transportation.

At 8 a. m. the city had a second shift of 1000 men at work clearing the downtown district. They replaced 800 men who had worked throughout the night.

This Mother Says "Sour Stomach Made Edward Dull Until—"

"Edward was usually a healthy, robust boy," says Mrs. Dorothy Ryan, to Middlewood St., New York, N.Y. "But for some reason he would get droopy and dull too often. It seemed as until I was told, too much starch and sweet food was giving him a sour stomach, and that Acidine would help him. I gave him regular doses and he is fine now."

More than 2 million people rely on Acidine to relieve sour, sick, sour stomach, sour gas, belchings and indigestion caused by too much acid. Try Acidine yourself to find out why. You can get it at any drug store or write Health Laboratories, Inc., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Paris, March 26 (AP)—Three hundred per cent increase in the new American tariff on lace, whether machine or hand-made, it is feared here, may have an unfavorable effect on the French parliament's handling of the American automobile problem.

Daring Story of Eternal Love Triangle

Ardeth Carroll, beauty, lives in the drab home of her Aunt Stella. Neil Burke, downstairs, claims Ardeth as his. She is uncertain. She yearns for a fuller life. Ardeth sees the man of her dreams, Ken Gleason. Neil is furiously jealous. Jeanette Parker, society girl, plans to use Ardeth in a scheme for revenge. She opens a shop and engages Ardeth to run it. Ardeth sees that she can never marry Neil. Ken comes to the shop and meets Ardeth. Both are secretly impressed. Sunday they spend on Ken's houseboat. Their first kiss. Then Ardeth becomes jealous of Cecilie, Jeanett's sister.

CHAPTER 17

WHEN Ah Ling came into the shop in the middle of the morning she heard her name called from the back room. She went in, to find Ardeth sitting on the couch with her wraps on.

"Phone Miss Parker," she directed the solicitous little Chinese girl. "Tell her she'll have to come down and take charge. I'm going home. I—I'm not well . . ."

And indeed she looked ill; her face milk-white save for two hectic spots of burning on her cheekbones.

But instead of turning toward home, she caught a street car going toward the beach. She found a seat on the deserted front end where the wind cooled her hot face, sitting with eyes closed and hands tightly interlaced in her lap.

At the end of the carline she struck off across the sand until she reached a large dune on the less frequented part of the beach. She sat down on its seaward side, pulling off her hat as the wind could lift her hair and fan her hot forehead.

Up to now she had held her feelings rigidly under control. But here there were no prying eyes. But for the moment tears would not come. She was too completely crushed, as yet, to feel anger or outraged pride.

Never once did it occur to her to doubt the article she had read in The Spy. Her own memory backed it up.

Now she knew the reason for that shadow on Ken's face the Sunday in the duck shack—that ominous something which had crept between them at the memento of Cecile. Knew the reason for that vague fear which had always underlain their gay words.

Afraid . . . yes, she had been. Something in her had recognized the lurking danger even when she had tried to hold her thought at arm's length.

And those nights, when she was not with him—jealous fear in her heart, picturing him with Cecile—his handsome, laughing face bent close to the other girl . . .

Then the storm broke. Rage shaking through her, hot—sweltering. Choking her so that she made stifled animal sounds, pounding her clenched hands on the sand though she pounded them on Cecile's beautiful, mocking face.

Sheer exhaustion brought her to herself, ashamed and a little sick and gritting on her teeth, grimly her half-strained face.

She sat up, catching her breath in convulsive gasps like a child which has cried too long, and scrubbed her cheeks with her wet ball of handkerchief.

She smoothed her hair, pulled on her hat. Sat for more than an hour with arms clasping her legs while she stared on the beach below.

Hard, bitter thoughts went over her mind as cloud shadows were passing over the water.

The old story! Her heart mocked her. The wealthy young man caught by a pretty face . . . Of course Ken wasn't wealthy but he was a part of that world of which held Cecile—Jeanette—all those easy mannered, comfortable people who came in Jeanette's shop.

Well—she'd asked for this pain, hadn't she? said the scornful inner voice in her mind. A fool about him . . . She had shown it in every look—every time her hand touched his. She had offered her heart on her lips—how could she blame him for taking it?

"A cheap fool!" she said it aloud, and her voice sounded oddly thin against the roar of the sea. Well was right . . . "They get all they can and then throw you to one side . . ."

Oh, what a fool she had been

Quincy's First Auto Owner Dies at 66

Fenwick W. Beal, of Quincy's first automobile owner and also the city's first automobile service station proprietor, died yesterday at his home in Merrymount road. He is survived by his widow and two daughters, Misses Elva and Dorothy Bent.

Bent established the first automobile service station in Quincy in 1900, about the time that his "horseless carriage" drew admiring crowds whenever he drove through the city.

Marionette Show to Feature Exhibition

A marionette show made by youngsters is one of the many features of a demonstration of handicraft work to be shown tonight at the North End Union at 20 Parmenter st.

CALLERS PEN NAMES ON BANDAGE

George Boucher's Splints Covered With Autographs of Teammates

A variation of the autograph albums came to light today in the Copley-Plaza suite where George Boucher, right defense of the Montreal Maroons hockey team, is confined with a fractured leg, suffered in the overtime period of the Bruins-Maroon melee last night at the Boston Garden.

While the doughty Montrealer lifted the bed clothes off his splintered left limb, teammates penned their names on the bandage with which the splint is covered, while a facetious member of his squad pencilled a caricature of the "smile that never comes off" on the sole of his injured foot.

Boucher may be down, but he's not out. He overcame the suggestions of attending surgeons who advised him to return to Montreal for further treatment.

"I'm going to see the Garden game tomorrow night even if I have to be carried there on a stretcher," he declared as tentative preparations were being made to convey him to a Montreal-bound train.

Boucher brought down the house as he waved a cheery greeting to the Garden crowds when being carried off the ice after his successful block of a goal aimed by Marty Barry of the Bruins.

Newlyweds Kept on Jump by Poker Party

At least one pair of newlyweds spending the first night of their honeymoon at a downtown hotel can blame a weekly poker game for continual interruptions last night.

The poker players for weeks have regularly used a fourth floor suite. Yesterday they neglected to make a reservation early and arriving by ones and twos were given a different suite, but only after they had been notified to go to the usual one.

Hence the steady stream of callers to the rooms of the newlyweds, who, incidentally, failed to see the humor of the situation.

DEMANDS STATE SHOE INQUIRY

State investigation of conditions in the shoe and leather industry in the Massachusetts Industrial Commission was urged at a legislative hearing today by Representative Michael Zack of Lynn.

He said the industry "will be wiped out within five years unless the State does something."

Refusal of Congress to put a tariff on shoe imports, he said, is a great blow in view of the fact that shoes from Czecho-Slovakia alone in the last seven years increased from 80,000 to 6,000,000 pairs.

In the same period, he said, the shoe industry in Massachusetts shrunk 50 per cent because of foreign competition

Ferry Service Is Delayed by Fire

Service on the South Ferry between East Boston and Eastern ave. was tied up for half an hour shortly before 6 o'clock today by fire in the rear of the Eastern ave. slip.

The fire was first seen by Captain Joseph Kelley of the Ferry Donahue while making a trip to the Boston side. He sounded the ferry whistle.

The loss is estimated at $2000. The cause, officials say, was an overheated stove.

Boost in Pay for Police Frowned on

A proposal to grant an increase of $200 in the yearly salaries of patrolmen of the Watertown police department has been disapproved by the finance committee of the town as part of the committee's campaign to reduce the tax rate.

The matter will come up for action at the adjourned town meeting Monday night.

New Wrinkle in Calling Cards

SEES MENACE TO NATION IN 'HYPOCRISY'

Hopedale Man to Run for Senate on Platform Calling for Repeal of Act

In a scathing denouncement of graft and corruption which has followed in the train of prohibition, Eben S Draper of Hopedale, candidate for the Republican nomination for United States senator, today came out squarely for repeal of the 18th amendment and the Baby Volstead law.

Draper was replying to an inquiry as to his stand on the liquor question propounded by Joseph Walker

He declared that "fanaticism of both wets and drys is undermining our very existence" and that "hypocrisy among office seekers and law makers is appalling."

In a statement accompanying his communication to Walker, Draper charged that federal prohibition is a "blatant failure."

He pointed to the corruption of the police, coast guard, revenue officials, and even judges.

Prohibition, he charged, has created the "most powerful criminal class ever known in history," and the old saloons are to overwhelmed by speakeasies. The estimations sounding the disappearance of medicinal liquor he stated to be "ridiculous."

In making his decision he said, he will probable lose the support of the fanatical drys and the backing of the Republican federal machine, but is determined not to seek the office under false pretenses.

"I am a firm believer in the personal liberties and the individual rights of every American citizen," the letter to Walker read. "True temperance has not been and will not be achieved through federal prohibition. A law which does not command obedience or even respect is surely subject to improvement.

MENACE IN FANATICS

"Therefore, I am in favor of the repeal of the 18th amendment to make way for a more sane and satisfactory solution of this problem. Moreover, in order to register my opposition I will vote to repeal the 'Baby Volstead act' if the question is on the ballot in November

"Fanaticism of both the wets and the drys is undermining our very existence. Hypocrisy among office-seekers and law-makers is appalling. The consequent utter disregard for law and order is the result. This prohibition question has assumed such hysterical and titanic proportions that it has overshadowed other important and fundamental issues.

"The welfare and the very livelihood of the people of Massachusetts is dependent upon the strength and industry of her factories and trade, and a more sane New England must demand proper recognition throughout the United States.

MUST RESPECT LAW

"Only by a strong offense and able defense of our natural resources, skilled labor, efficient management and capital can this be accomplished.

"What a thing which has been prohibited for 10 years is still plentiful throughout the land the principle of the law suffers and is brought into disrepute.

"True temperance can only be achieved by reasonable laws that will command the respect and have the co-operation of our citizens."

STATE FISH PIER IN GLOUCESTER URGED TO SAVE DELAYS

LONG WAITS TO UNLOAD IN BOSTON

Sponsors Ask for a Special Commission to Study the Advisability of Plan

Establishment of a special commission to investigate the advisability of the construction by the state of a fish pier in Gloucester was urged by a number of speakers at a legislative hearing today at the State House.

Construction of such a pier, it was pointed out, would be a great aid to one of the most important industries in the State.

The point was made by Representative Harold B. Webber that the fish pier in Boston is not large enough to accommodate all the fishing vessels and that many of the boats have to wait one or two days to unload their catch. He said that the delays have resulted in great financial losses to the fishermen.

Among the other speakers to favor the investigation were: Representatives Willard S. McKay of Newburyport, Carl A. Woekel of Methuen, Archibald M. Estabrook of Haverhill and Senator James A. Torrey of Beverly.

CAMPUS LOVE HELD FOE OF STUDIES

B. U. Poll Shows 'Affairs' Are Often Responsible for Poor Marks

Love elivens collegiate life, Boston University students agree, but it oftentimes has a bad effect on study habits and is responsible for poor marks.

The Boston University News, reporting the result of a recent poll, finds blondes and brunettes, if allowed to overshadow textbooks, are no incentive to the education the undergraduates supposedly are seeking.

A dean, Phi Beta Kappas, married and single students and leading social lights all were queried. Opinions varied but a majority blame Cupid instead of encouraging the youngster.

An intellectual who is to take a leading part in the Gilbert and Sullivan show as part of "Junior Week" and who is supposed to have romance in his soul, claims too much time spent in amorous thoughts destroys the educational purposes for which students go to school and instead they study human emotions.

The two Phi Beta Kappas favor love as a stimulus, claiming it does not hurt a student in the least. One admitted she had several affairs and her marks never suffered. The other stated, "It is an incentive in my work."

Dean Everett W. Lord of the College of Business Administration feels love is a factor in poor work. He says, "A sense of false freedom, outside activities and remunerative work, are largely responsible for failures in studies. Being in love certainly does affect the grades of some students. Many a student of good ability loses his head along with his heart."

To balance the students of intellect, one who is on probation for poor scholastic work, was questioned next. "I was in love once," he declares. "I couldn't study, couldn't work, couldn't do anything, in fact. I spent the greater part of my time worrying and wondering."

Those at the university who are married are of the opinion it does not hurt them in the least.

Howe Raps Murphy's Schoolhouse Probe

The projected investigation of the building of the senior high school in Somerville, demanded by Mayor John F. Murphy on Monday, was yesterday characterized as "a smoke screen" by William S. Howe, defeated Republican candidate in the 1929 Somerville mayoralty election.

In a lengthy statement, Howe charged that the purpose of the investigation is not to consider any possible faults in the construction of the senior high school under the last administration, but to afford the mayor an opportunity to change architects on the new junior high school, which is now under construction.

It was also his third appearances on as many consecutive days, and Judge Ralph W. Reeve promised it would be his last for some time.

LINK 3 SPORTS TO RAIDED CLUB

A check-up of evidence obtained by federal agents at their raid on the Cotton Club, Lansdowne St., Back Bay, today revealed that the rendezvous was controlled by three of the best known figures in Boston sporting circles.

The raid, led by Maj. H. E. Goodenough, assistant U. S. prohibition administrator for New England, resulted in injuries to two of his agents, the seizure of two and a half pints of liquor and the arrest of five men.

The raiders charged they were attacked as soon as they entered and alleged two of their number were felled by blackjacks wielded by club employes.

Goodenough's aides declared one of those financially interested in the Cotton Club was prominently connected with a former liquor club in Friend st., where an agent was recently beaten, robbed of his badge and forced to sign an affidavit denying he had bought drinks on the premises.

Search of the clothing of Joseph Kelley, one of those arrested by the federal sleuths, is alleged to have revealed possessions of two slips bearing the name of one of the best known bootlegging "kings" in this city.

Those taken into custody with Kelley gave the names of Nathaniel M. Clark, Andrew Clark, Edward T. Betts and Joseph Levine.

WINS FLOWER SHOW PRIZES

The tiny 100-year-old house and old-fashioned garden that attracted so much attention at the Spring Flower Show which opened yesterday to 10,000 visitors at Horticultural Hall, was awarded the prize of $100 offered by the North Shore Garden Club, and also received the $100 cup offered by Albert C. Burrage, president of the Horticultural Society. This was the exhibit of Mrs. Lester Leland of Boston and Manchester

The garden contained all varieties of flowers which were famous years ago, some of them almost unknown to the present generation. Thus bleeding hearts pot marigolds, sweet alyssum, English daisies, ladies' delight, forget-me-nots and many other varieties were seen there

Inside this house, which is the Horticultural Society's contribution to Tercentenary Year, are antiques which have been collected from various parts of New England. The mantelpiece is over 175 years old, and the school books on the tiny table inside, are those that were used in Boston in 1800.

Another feature of the Flower Show is the hall given over to the Garden Club exhibits. Various clubs in this vicinity have been preparing for the show for five months, and the first prize for the most attractive garden went to the Milton Garden Club.

QUIZ FULLER ON PROHIBITION ATTITUDE

Liberal Civic League Asks Ex-Governor for Frank Statement on Issue

Declaring their intention to prevent any pussyfooting on the wet and dry issue, the Liberal Civic League, Inc., has called upon former Gov. Alvan T Fuller for a frank statement of his attitude as a senatorial aspirant

These blunt questions are asked

Do you favor the retention of the Eighteenth Amendment?

Do you favor the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment?

Do you favor the repeal of the Massachusetts "Baby Volstead Act"?

Questionnaires were previously sent to William M. Butler, the former senator, who seeks the toga on a bone-dry platform, and Eben S Draper, whose exact attitude has as yet not been made clear

Conrad W. Crooker, general counsel for the Liberal Civic League, discussing the questionnaire, said

Prohibition bids fair to be the dominant issue of the campaign, and the average voter is insisting upon a clear and candid statement upon this issue

"We believe that upon this issue there is no middle ground. A candidate is either for or against prohibition"

Ex-Gov. Fuller could not be reached last night for a statement on what his attitude will be

The former governor has given the impression he will have little to say on any of the major issues at present

So far, he has contented himself with belaboring the Liggett-Gillett Innes faction of the Republican party within the state, and with a blanket endorsement of President Hoover's administration and policies.

An indication of Fuller's views may be obtained from his recent defense of President Hoover's stand on the dry law. He said:

"A great deal of criticism is being directed against President Hoover because he is enforcing the prohibition law.

"I submit to you, whether you believe in prohibition or not, you surely would not expect the President of the United States to take the oath of office to enforce the law of the land and then sidestep the responsibility."

Draper is understood to favor modification.

SOLONS BLOCK PLAN TO BUILD HIGH STADIUM

City of Newton Is Expected to Stand Cost, but Pupils Will Have to Wait

The Legislature having refused to approve the proposed sale of non-interest bearing bonds for a Newton high school athletic stadium on Claflin Field, Newtonville, the City of Newton is expected to assume the entire expense, but it may be a year or two before the work is completed

It was suggested originally that bonds be purchased by wealthy Newton citizens, that eventually these who purchased bonds would receive the sum spent without any interest from the gate receipts

The Legislature frowned on redeeming bonds out of gate receipts, when requested to rule on the proposition by City Solicitor Joseph Bartlett of Newton

Newton high school expects to play all of its baseball games this spring on the new Claflin Field diamond

TRIBUTE PAID TO LAWTON ON HIS BIRTHDAY

It must have been a matter of great pride and gratification to Otto A. Lawton when approximately 350 men corralled him at Hotel Hemingway, and in no uncertain terms, in prose and poetry, as well as in presentation, told him just what they really thought of him on the anniversary of his birth

All, save two, of the men who have been closely associated with the organization of which he is the head, the Franklin Motor Car Company, as well as two of the chief executives from the factory, were there to do him honor, and make the occasion memorable.

General Manager (Jack) P. E. Frost was the moving spirit and how he managed to get Otto Lawton to the party is as yet unknown

Vice-President John E. Williams and Eastern Sales Manager E. C. Beaton of the H. H. Franklin Company brought with them greetings and best wishes of the parent organization, with which Otto Lawton has been identified for the past 29 years. As the Boston dealer for over 24 years Mr. Lawton has made an enviable reputation, and a great success as a merchandiser.

The great thrill, however, came when J. M. McGuinness, associated with Mr. Lawton for 23 years, presented him with a moving picture camera. Before Mr. Lawton had an opportunity to recover from his surprise Wallace L. Wilcox, the oldest Franklin dealer, associated with the company for a quarter of a century, brought forth a projector with which the moving pictures may be reproduced on the screen.

Others who had something nice to say were: E. W. Waldo, H. W. Bowers, C. A. Hynes, T. R. Keery, Harry C. Mayo.

DODGE HAS WIDE TRUCK LINE

Officials of the truck division of Dodge Brothers announced that the company now has what is considered the most comprehensive range of units in the motor truck industry. Capacities range from the Merchants Express light delivery car to the heavy-duty three-ton truck, and the various models and combinations in the line meet 96 per cent of all hauling needs.

Six-cylinder engines and four-wheel brakes on all models, and radiator shutters operated from the dash on all heavy-duty models are outstanding features of the 1930 Dodge Brothers commercial cars and trucks. Four-cylinder power plants are also available in the ½-ton and 1-ton sizes. A four-speed transmission in the one-ton and heavier capacities insures more flexible operation under all conditions. Hydraulic, internal-expanding brakes are standard equipment on all trucks, school buses and motor coaches. All brakes are completely enclosed as a protection against dirt and dust, and afford positive control at all times.

HARD TESTS FOR WILLYS SIX

Monday marked the inaugural of Willys-Overland's 5,000,000-mile demonstration, featuring the performance of the new Willys Six. The demonstration, in which the entire Willys-Overland distributor and dealer organization take part, will continue until Saturday, March 29, and will provide the public an opportunity of witnessing the performance of this low-priced six which develops a speed of 72 miles an hour in high and 48 miles an hour in second with its 65-horsepower engine.

Every type of performance is included in the program to clearly show the outstanding features of the Willys Six. Notable among the demonstrations will be tests of high top speed, fast second speed and unusual power development.

France Has Best Network of Roads

Among European countries, France has the best network of roads for automobile travel, with a total length of 828,000 kilometers.

Germany is next, with 548,700 kilometers, while Great Britain, with a total of 287,500 kilometers, ranks third.

New Model Follows Thru

No sooner had the new Chevrolet Roadster delivery model been introduced than it caught the eye of four specialty dancers from the cast of "Follow Thru," golf musical comedy. And so, to Belle Isle, to pry off the lid at Detroit's Island Park.

SEES MORE FOR USED CAR BUYER

"The used car buyer today receives more for his money than at any previous time in the history of the automotive industry," says D. T. Hersey of the Oakland Motor Company of New England, distributers for Oakland-Pontiac cars, whose "golden opportunity used car clearance sale" will soon end.

"Recent new car sales of the new Oakland V-type eight and the new series Pontiac big six have brought into our salesrooms a record number of good used cars," he said. "Many owners of these cars had intended driving their machines another year or at least until spring. But the appeal of the new Oakland-Pontiac line induced them to trade in valuable cars for the thrill of owning the latest products of the Oakland Motor Car Company. Nine out of every 10 new Oakland-Pontiac sales involve the trading in of a used car.

Studebaker Has the Resistance

The resistance to wear built into Studebaker motor cars is emphasized by a veteran Studebaker touring car in which two Belgian war veterans are making a three-year trip around the world according to G. M. Sullivan, vice-president of the Studebaker Sales Company of Boston. The car already has 175,000 miles to its credit.

AUTO DOLLAR IS WORTH MORE

"It is a well known fact that a dollar spent for an automobile buys more than if expended for other merchandise, figuring on 1914 values," says J. T. Collins, general sales manager of the Olds Motor Works. "The dollar of 1914 purchases $1.13 worth of automobile today while the same dollar buys only 62 cents' worth of living necessities, due to changing values during the past 16 years.

"One of several reasons why this favorable condition exists is to be found in the tool design department of the modern automobile factory. An example of the continuous efforts of these tool and machine designers to improve methods is seen in a new machine recently perfected and installed in the Oldsmobile factories to face and chamfer for bevell the crankshaft bearing end of connecting rod.

"Scores of other special machines and manufacturing methods are in daily use at the Oldsmobile factories as evidence at the ceaseless efforts of the tool designers to improve production and product. A machine or operation is hardly installed before efforts are being made to still further improve its work. It is these constant efforts of the 'men behind the scenes' that contributes so much to the present low cost of fine automobiles."

Buy Studebakers for Camera Cars

The recent purchase of three Studebaker Model 77 straight-eight commercial chassis by the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation for use as camera cars, emphasizes the importance of transportation facilities "behind the scenes," according to Gerald M. Sullivan, vice-president, Studebaker Sales Co. of Boston. "Choice of Studebakers by the movie maker was based on its experience with two similar units previously owned," he said.

Cross Country Trip Advocated for All

A transcontinental trip should be the goal of every American motorist, in the opinion of Cannon Ball Baker, who completed his 97th motor trip across last fall when he drove a stock Franklin sedan over the 3260 miles between New York and Los Angeles in 69 hours and 31 minutes.

"A transcontinental tour would show our people this wonderful country and make them truly appreciate its magnitude.

Nanking President Gets Armored Auto

The most costly and luxurious automobile ever brought to China was built in the United States for the president of the Nanking government. The whole of the metal work on the body of the limousine, and even the hood, is if half-inch thick navy steel plate, which is designed to shed the bullets or bombs of would-be assassins. Two extra seats project from the back of the car, built high enough to permit the occupants to see forward over the hood.

Why Everywoman has faith in GOOD HOUSEKEEPING

EVERYWOMAN regards GOOD HOUSEKEEPING as a pioneer influence.

It has led since 1885 in stimulating her to successful achievements; in giving her the knowledge by which she could attain charm and comfort and efficiency.

It was the first magazine to assemble authorities to show her how Science and Invention could become her servants.

It was the first to create a laboratory—GOOD HOUSEKEEPING Institute—in which household devices and cookery could be scientifically tested.

It created the only Bureau of Foods, Sanitation and Health, to test foods, cosmetics and drug products—so that her dining table, dressing table, and medicine cabinet could be protected.

Its Studio of Furnishings and Decorations with its monthly exhibits of rooms showing artistic American-made furnishings, has been a leader in inspiring Everywoman to live in surroundings of taste and beauty.

Its Fashion Service has won prestige because of the swiftness and authority with which it translates the dictates of Paris to meet the practical needs of style-minded women in every American locality.

GOOD HOUSEKEEPING was the first to teach Everywoman the importance of good merchandise in the needs of her person, her children, her home; the first to guarantee for her products accepted for advertising.

Today, to an unparalleled degree, it devotes talent, brains, and money to enable it to guide with supreme authority the woman of 1930 and 1935.

What is the result of this long, progressive, unfailingly accurate and helpful service? The result is that GOOD HOUSEKEEPING has created good will and won prestige among American families to an extent that makes it conspicuous among magazines.

Everywoman's faith in GOOD HOUSEKEEPING becomes active patronage for advertisers whose goods are worthy to be advertised in GOOD HOUSEKEEPING.

CLIVE LETS AIDES HAVE LEADS

By NICHOLAS YOUNG

UNDER the somewhat mystical title of "D. C. M.," Mr. E. E. Clive of the always interesting uptown Copley, turns shepherd and leads his flock from thither to yon. For the moment, on upper Stuart st., murder, mystery and machination give way to stirring old war stuff. Not the crack of guns, mind you, but a spirited story of how one nice old woman took G. H. Q. by storm and, in fine motherly fashion, fixed things up for her own soldier boy.

THE drama of the late war has taken many flirts and flings, but it has remained for Evelyn Glover, with "D. C. M." to test its possibilities in new directions. For here the battle is behind the lines, and the objective a Distinguished Conduct Medal. It is a war play without even the blare of a trumpet. How deeply the realities of war may cut into the mother's heart has aroused both post and preacher. But to the genius Mrs. Scattergood of this story they were merely opportunities for service to the King and glory for her son. She was no whining pacifist. Mr. Clive, unsully a leader in the Copley's artistic assaults, now submerges himself in a hospital cot, leaving to Elspeth Dudgeon and Richard Whorf the heavy duties of the performance.

TO those who have followed the fortunes of Miss Dudgeon and Mr. Whorf as they have faithfully plied their talents in Clive productions, their service in "D. C. M." brings its own revelation. Miss Dudgeon, in manner not unfamiliar, carries the play to its logical end. Neither rule nor regulation, nor even provost marshal can stop her. There is something pitifully tragic in the blind faith of this mother. And amusing, too. Still, if you can believe the author, this was the English mother's reaction to the great conflict. They couldn't kill her son. They knew better. But they might bestow upon him a medal of honor.

OF humor, there is little—just fragments here and there, snatched at random as circumstance permits. Only in the base hospital, with Clive propped up in bed beside four other damaged Englishmen, is there comedy of more than passing consequence. Naturally, Mr. Clive lays earnest hands upon his only opportunity. The performance may not be passed, however, without a word of praise for Mr. Estes now a sour hag with a bad leg and coarse tongue. She seldom fails when the call goes forth for adroit characterization.

THERE are others, too, whose contributing "bits" round out an interesting if not exciting evening. Ralph Roberts may be mentioned; also Rosalind Russell, Gerald Rogers, Ian Emery and Esther Mitchell. And then you are reminded that "D. C. M." boiled down, is Elspeth Dudgeon winning the war, while Clive snoozes in his hospital bed.

He Knows His Calves

EL BRENDEL AND MARJORIE WHITE

"The Golden Calf," coming to the New B. F. Keith's next Saturday, has nothing to do with the farm. It's a show of "love, legs, laughter and music," so you can guess where the calf angle comes in.

JACKIE COOGAN'S LITTLE BROTHER TO BE STAR

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor of Universal Service
Copyright, 1930, by Universal Service

Los Angeles, March 26.

JACKIE COOGAN is to have a successor, and since it is to be his baby brother, Pat, whom he adores, he cannot be jealous.

Tod Browning took one look at Pat, who has all the baby charm that Jackie had when he captivated the world in "The Kid" with Charlie Chaplin.

"I want him," he said to Mrs. Coogan

"But we had no thought of putting him in the movies," she said. "He is so young."

But Tod's directorial instinct told him there was a find and he would not take no for an answer. The contracts have not been signed, but there is every reason to believe young Pat will make his debut at Universal as soon as the first Browning picture goes into production. We have never really had a child as fascinating as Jackie, although Davey Lee is a cunning youngster. He has come nearest to following Jackie of any child we have had in pictures.

Janet Gaynor

HOLLYWOOD GOSSIP

SNAPSHOTS of Hollywood collected at random: Tod Browning in a beret cap at the races at Agua Caliente. Constance Talmadge in a smart Greer creation with her husband, Townsend Netcher, and her brother-in-law, Irving Netcher, among the Hollywood folk at the races. Mrs. L. C. Freud in a green and blue combination. Natalie Talmadge Keaton wearing yellow. Mrs. Kalmus in red, and Marie Prevost in conservative black. Mrs. Hunt Stromberg and Mrs Harry Cohn among the well dressed Hollywood women at the races. Louise Fazenda present with her husband, Hal Wallis. Eddie Mannix's niece much admired. Carmen Pantages wearing a becoming brown sport dress and hat and shoes.

CHARLIE FARRELL will have a new leading lady in "Lilliom." The two famous screen lovers will be separated and all because Janet Gaynor packed up her bag and fled to Honolulu without taking the trouble to tell the Fox studio of her plans. Tests have been going on for a week at the studio and right now it looks as if the love scenes that Farrell plays will be with Mary Philbin. Mary, at the moment, is the most likely candidate. Of course, when Janet hears the picture is going on without her, she may return. Human nature is sometimes perverse that way, and her greatest success has been co-starring with Charlie Farrell.

THERE will be no picture-making at the Pathe studios for Mary Lewis for the present. The Metropolitan Opera Company, with which she has a contract, summoned her to New York and within twenty-four hours she was on the train, bag and baggage, hastening East to talk business. Just what happened is rather vague, the only story being that Miss Lewis is unable to make the picture for Pathe which was arranged several weeks ago.

ROMEO'S LOVE TALE AGAIN AT HOLLIS

A COMPANY of players to whom the drama of Shakespeare is a high tradition and a living art won acclaim at the Hollis last night, when the Stratford-Upon-Avon festival company presented "Romeo and Juliet." A production of distinctive simplicity, with settings rich in color and glamorous in beauty, was the fitting back ground for the deathless drama of love and youth, in which each and every player gave to his role a vitality and understanding too seldom revealed by any company.

The Juliet of Joyce Bland was a young and glowing Juliet; a Juliet impulsive and lovely, tragic as youth is tragic. In the earlier scenes, Miss Bland was a vibrant and alluring figure, alive to the poetry and the vivid loveliness of her role. In the later scenes she rose to heights of great drama, a poignant and unforgetable Juliet.

The Romeo of George Hayes was, too, a young Romeo; a vigorous, impetuous and romantic lover, sensitive equally to the poetry and stark drama of the role.

Notable among the performances was the subtle and tragic Mercutio of Wilfrid Walter, and the stormy Tybalt of Eric Maxon. Roy Byford, as Friar Laurence, contributed a distinctive and moving characterization. Olive Walter, as the nurse, was also excellent.

Tonight, the Stratford players will present "Julius Caesar."

"Show Girl" Will Have World Premiere Here

MIDGETS ARE ALL SINGLE

OF the entire troupe of 25 midgets comprising Ike Rose's act at the Keith-Albee, not one is married. All are single and virtually every one of the feminine members of the troupe longs for a home of her own

Gladys Farkas, 22, of Akron, O., thinks Thomas A. Edison is the greatest man in the United States today, and her teammate, at least as far as the stage goes, Miss Marie Hartline, the blonde with the straight bob and only 17, agrees with her.

Does the high cost of living bother them? "Yes and no," they answer.

Shoes have to be made to order and mens suits cost as much as if for an ordinary sized man. But the women make all their own clothes—and how they like to sew. Are they good cooks? Well, just ask their manager, Mr. Rose. Rose says: "I allow them $8 per week each for meals and these clever little women save money on it. Yet if you take one of them out to dine just watch the old bill mount up. They sure get the percentage."

Kurt Zwiebler's sister, Friedel, is also a member of the troupe She is 20 and Kurt is 19. Both Kurt and Friedel have the sweetest dispositions and are the best humored little humans you'd ever want to meet.

"SONG O' MY HEART"
By TOM BARRY
Directed by FRANK BORZAGE
LIKE A BREATH OF FRESH AIR!

"Not only is the McCormack voice reproduced in all its full beauty of tone and feeling, but the great tenor proves to be a most natural and ingratiating actor."
—Prunella Hall, Boston Post.

"If it were not for its many highly artistic features, John McCormack's first sound film would be acclaimed largely as a new triumph of the machine. Surely the faithfulness with which the tenor's voice is reproduced by mechanical means is sufficiently amazing to relegate other features to the background." —Boston Transcript.

"John McCormack in 'Song O' My Heart' is the peak achievement of the talking screen—there is a gentleness about the story that is invigorating—a wholesomeness that is refreshing in the extreme—adorable naturalness in Maureen O'Sullivan and Tommy Clifford, two 'finds from Ireland."—Harleigh Schultz, Boston Evening American.

"'Song O' My Heart' is a splendid achievement, immense entertainment—Frank Borzage has directed the famous singer with consummate craftsmanship—the story is sweet and wistful—it is filled with moving sentiment—grand comedy is supplied by J. M. Kerrigan and Farrell Macdonald."—Helen Eager, Boston Traveler.

"Certainly nothing clearer or more authentic has ever come from a magic white cloth than those voices of 'Song O' My Heart.' If you don't believe it, go and hear them for yourselves and depart, converted and convinced." —W. E. G., Boston Herald.

"John McCormack heard with delight at the Majestic—that there was no disappointment was evident by the applause for every number." —Boston Globe.

FLATLEY SAYS

Rules Committee Decides on Minor Grid Changes

THE football rulers had a sensible spell and didn't do much to the game this winter—just tacked a couple of counts onto the shift play rule—a good idea, that—the collegians were no smart they could count four while the referee was fixing his belt—they will show the world that six isn't a real handicap, nohow, this fall, but the snappy teams will not be able to get away with murder—pretty soon the boys will have time to ramble to the sidelines for tea between shifts, a la cricket.

It just gives the officials a few more jobs, and these boys have plenty as it is—they will soon be derricked onto the field wearing diving suits, microphones, seismographs, split second watches and steam calliope attachments—which they should, at that, to drag down the big dough some of them collect—the toot of the whistle has brought more hearts and ruined more lungs than gas bombs—but the game is getting even with the tooters—the added burdens may cut down the horde of spring officials, which would be all right by us and the coaches.

FOOTBALL is such a good game now that it's only human nature to change it.

Maybe Fights Are Not in the Bag, After All

VITTORIO CAMPOLO, the leaning tower of the Argentine, drew the worst of the decision in his row with Johnny Risko the other night—the fans all were for stout-hearted Johnny, but they boo-ed voluminously when the decision went his way—this gives a particularly good angle on this peculiar ring racket—Madison Square Garden owns the huge rancher from the pampas; he was supposed to have it the edge in his Garden quarrel, but couldn't lose—it was in the bag, as most fights are supposed to be, according to the knockers—yet Campolo undoubtedly won, and was handed the works—Risko licked him down in Cleveland was robbed—now Campy wins where he's supposed to, and gathers nothing but the runaround—the smart boys always are supposed to be doing things with the ring; but they flop remarkably often, where smartness would count most—it may be all wrong, but the evidence usually points the other way when the squawkers' case seems about to be proven.

A POET down in Providence has decided to turn wrestler. He will, probably, be known as the verse wrassler of history.

Something to Remember on Rainy Days

REMEMBER when tickets couldn't be given away for hockey games in Boston—when fighters held court in the popular bars, and sold tickets for their own scraps—when the league built players could chisel in anywhere, and crash gates by showing their cigarette picture cards—when amateur athletics was tickled to death to get a two dollar watch—when the bar tenders could give favored customers Annie Laurie to anything in town—when 75 cents was tops at any ring show—when ball players and battlers wore sweaters and caps to social functions, if any—when two bits was considered a fearful load for tickets to anything popular—when a tailor made suit set a guy apart as a standout—when a college chap could start a riot anywhere by just mentioning that fact.

THERE were 336 entries for a ping pong tournament in New York. Which converts the parlor table game into a racket.

Sarah Palfrey Youngest on International Team

DID you know that Sarah Palfrey is the youngest tennis player ever to be named on an international team—that the same Sarah is bound to succeed Helen Wills—that Sonnyboy Finnegan is ready to comeback, but shouldn't—that any fair heavyweight could defeat Carnera, but none will get a shot at him—that Francis Ouimet is likely to grab off the English amateur crown—that the athlete-writer business is about washed up—that most of the golfers who play the southern tournaments have to wire for transportation home—that sweepstake tickets on the Boston Marathon seem to have dropped out of the market.

BRUINS LOSE; BOUCHER'S LEG BROKEN

By BILL GRIMES

IN spite of the fact that the Bruins needed only one game to win the title, the Montreal Maroons refused to change their style of play last night, and were rewarded with a 1-to-0 decision after 86 minutes and 27 seconds of the hardest fought hockey ever played in a championship series.

The Maroons have played defensive hockey from the start of the series. They have been waiting for the breaks which failed to come until almost a half hour of overtime.

Bill Grimes

The play which brought the Maroons their first victory had horseshoes all over it. Jimmie Ward went down the right wing and he was ridden into the corner but managed to get off his pass.

Archie Wilcox, who had started the play, was jockeying around in front of the Bruin net trying to shake off his cover-point.

While he attempted to body Wilcox out of the play, Eddie Shore fell in front of the Boston goal and pinned Tiny Thompson up against the goal. While Shore and Thompson were tangled up Wilcox grabbed Ward's pass out and drove it home for the only tally of the evening.

Although there was more or less rough stuff going on during the entire game, the contest was not in the same class as the second Montreal game in this line. Hooley Smith refused to be quiet because he was playing before a hostile crowd, but Dave Trottier was tame.

Boucher's Leg Broken in Collision

One serious accident marred the game. In the overtime period, Marty Barry collided with George Boucher and the Maroon defense man received a broken leg.

At the start of this championship series, the Maroons adopted a style of defensive hockey which they have held to religiously. Evidently, the board of strategy figured out that the Bruins' scoring strength was Harry Oliver and Dit Clapper.

The Maroons have been out to stop Oliver and Clapper, but these stars have come through with four of the six Boston goals. The Maroon defensive tactics worked out to perfection, as far as scoring was concerned last night, although both Oliver and Clapper turned in stellar performances.

By sending their left wings up to the Boston blue line at the start of a Bruin attack, Coach Gardiner instructions to pick up and cover either Oliver or Clapper closely, the Montrealers figured that they could stop the Rossmen.

Bruins Defense Failed in Third Game

There is no disputing the fact that the Bruins did not display their usual smooth functioning offense last night. Of course, Harry Oliver and Dit Clapper were in for clean shots during the long game, but their combination was not clicking up to standard.

Marty Barry and Dutch Gainor were the substitutions. Upon this pair fell the task of carrying down through that tough Maroon defense. The Montrealers were hitting the boys hard every time they attempted to go through but not once did either Barry or Gainor falter. They took a terrible beating and displayed a brand of aggressive seldom offered in any professional sport.

Evidently, the Bruins relied upon Barry and Gainor to carry down and feed their wings. They made

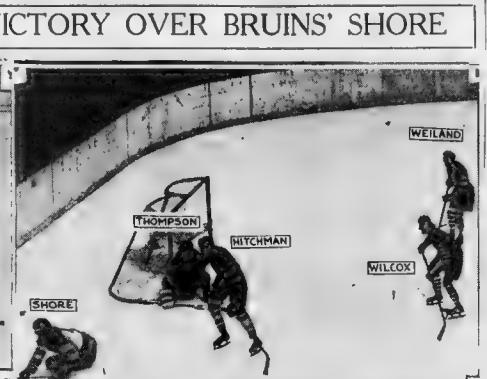
Eddie Ehore is only one man on the Bruins team, but he came very near stopping the Montreal Maroons at the Garden in the third game of the N. H. L. playoff series. Eddie is shown in the photo above helping make sure that a save by Tiny Thompson in the first period would not result in another try by the Maroons.



The 1-to-0 victory by the Maroons means that they will play the Bruins again tomorrow night at the Garden. Eddie Shore was in the middle of every play, and did valiant work in halting the Maroon attempts to score. In the sudden death period, Wilcox, Maroon defense man, shot the only goal to win the game. B. C. Restores Hockey on Sport List

Boston College's graduate athletic board has unanimously voted to restore hockey to the list of B. C. sports.

The graduate athletic board was opposed to the removal of hockey last winter but the authority was in the hands of the president of Boston College and it was decided to try it out as an experiment.

The vote of the graduate board will be a recommendation to the B. C. president and it is expected that he will sanction the restoration of the ice sport.

With a minor "B" as a reward for their labors, it is expected that many new members will join the golf, tennis and fencing teams and give all three additional strength.

HOLY CROSS IN COLLEGE GOLF

Holy Cross College golf team will appear for the second time in the Intercollegiate Golf League. The Crusaders seem likely to win a real reputation on the links.

Jerry Baxter of New York and Tom Earls of Cincinnati are the only remaining letter men, but there are many fine players in the sophomore class, who provide the nucleus for a strong team. They are Fred Mayer, Rye, N. Y.; Henry Doyle, Worcester; Jack Kerrigan, Fall River; Tom Dwyer, Rochester; Joe Flatley, Manchester, and Joe Fay, Boston. All have done well in competition play.

The schedule is:

May 5, Harvard at Boston; 9, George-town at Worcester; 10, Princeton at New Haven; 16, Bowdoin at Worcester, 17, Dartmouth at Boston; 21, Yale at Hartford; 23, Williams at Boston; 24, Brown at Boston; 28, Worcester Tech at Worcester; 29, Boston College at Worcester.

Leonidas, 66 to 1 Shot, Wins Classic

Lincoln, Eng., March 26 (AP).—Leonidas II, ridden by H. Beasley, today won the Lincolnshire handicap, the first important race of the 1930 flat racing season.

Leonidas II is by Teddy from Helene Detroit, owned by M. Boussac. J. McLean's Culzean was second and Sir G. Noble's Knicnt Error was third. Thirtyone ran. It was the 74th running of the famous handicap over the mile course.

Leonidas II, which was an outsider at 66 to 1, captured the race by three lengths. There were two lengths between second and third Culzean was quoted at 40 to 1 and Knight Error at 28 to 1.

The stakes were £1000 with extras.

Handball Tourney Starts Tonight

The first round of the New England doubles handball championship will be played tonight at the East Boston gymnasium under the direction of the Boston park department.

Matches this evening are: M Oray and Upham vs. Page and Timilty, Driscoll and Al Gould vs Crowley and Beauvan, Petre and Benedict vs. Breen and Tobin, Novak and Menerva vs. winners first match.

OXFORD GOLF TEAM WINS

Hoylake, Eng., March 26 (AP) Oxford, captained by an American and with two other Americans on its team, won the annual golf contest with Cambridge today after two days of play in foursomes and singles.

Capt. Bobby Baugh, of Birmingham, Ala., led Oxford to victory with a smashing triumph by a margin of 4 and 3 over Eric Brain, Cambridge leader, in a 36-hole match.

Charles Sweeney of New York and London, Baugh's partner in a one-sided win over a Cambridge pair in the foursomes yesterday, also won in decisive style, defeating W. C. Carr of Cambridge, 6 and 5.

At three of the Americans won their matches, as Barry Schofiel of New York and Paris, came through successfully against J. D. Kerr of Cambridge.

The final score of the competition was Oxford 12, Cambridge 3, the Oxonians taking eight of the 10 singles matches today after having won four of the five foursomes yesterday.

Sweeney Superior Over Carr in All Departments

Sweeney was superior to Carr in all departments of the game in their morning play, but his putting was the telling factor. He holed several difficult rollers in addition to playing a sound long game.

The American took the lead for the first time at the sixth with an eagle three following this with a fine three at the seventh for a two up margin. Thereafter Carr was fighting a losing battle.

There was a close battle between Baugh and Prain in the forenoon. Many bunkers were still waterlogged and the usual rules adopted on account of the conditions gave Prain an early advantage.

Mickey O'Neil Is Released by Cards

Bradenton, Fla., March 26 (AP) George "Mickey" O'Neil, National League backstop, was given his unconditional release by the St. Louis Cardinals to allow the retention of Gus Mancuso. O'Neil, whose arm went bad on him, was rounding into good shape this spring, but Mancuso will have to be carried by the hands under Commissioner Landis' ruling.

O'Neil, a St. Louis boy, immediately started dickering with Manager Bill Killefer of the St Louis Browns.

Grays Hold Practice

Providence, March 25 (AP) Manager Eddie Onslow put 14 Providence Grays candidates through an easy practise session here today, the first of the spring training season. Tomorrow 25 candidates will be on hand for work.

Bruin Tickets on Sale Till Ten

The Bruins hockey management has made arrangements through the Boston Garden to keep the box office for the fourth playoff game of the series with the Maroons open until 10 o'clock tonight, so that all season ticket holders will be taken care of.

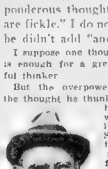
Fans Are Fickle

By DAMON RUNYON

SOME great big powerful thinker once got his noggin to working and evolved the ponderous thought, "The fans are fickle." I do not know why he didn't add "and simple."

I suppose one thought at a time is enough for a great big powerful thinker.

But the overpowering truth of the thought he thunk was brought home to me while squatted in Madison Square Garden (other evening. The fans there gathered had started out rendering ode to Victorio Campolo, the Beanpole of the Argentine, the good old Bronx cheer, because Victorio was buffing Rubbery Blubbery Jawn Risko about the ears with what the fans construed as the rabbit punch."



Damon Runyon

It was nothing of the sort. The so-called "rabbit punch" is a blow to the back of the neck delivered with the outer edge of the palm, so to speak, or with the wrist.

THE Beanpole was clouting old Hub-Hub with the face of his clinched fist in a perfectly orthodox and legitimate manner, positively twice, or three times, he did employ an imitation of the "rabbit punch," for which he was promptly warned by Arthur Donovan, the referee, but in the main the blows he landed on the adamant rear of Jawn's sconce piece were quite okay.

But some of the fans squealed bloody murder every time the Beanpole socked Jawn in this wise, and presently Donovan was occasionally cautioning Victor for wallops that would pass scrutiny from the Marquis of Queensberry himself.

THEN suddenly the same fans who had been shrieking about the iniquity of Victorio's blasts decided that the stranger from the Pampas was being persecuted and began crying aloud their opinion of the referee.

Possibly the fact that it was apparent that old Campy was slowly forging ahead in the battle had something to do with the change in sentiment.

Old Rudolph Ringworm may loathe and despise a bloke at the beginning of hostilities, but he commences to dearly love that bloke if the bloke looks a winner.

It's human nature the world over to be with the front runner. When Risko and Campolo stood together in the center of the ring, a giraffe against a mud turtle, the sympathy of the crowd was with Rubbery Blubbery Jawn.

THE smaller chap always draws the sympathy, especially if he is a game, willing fellow like Risko.

But even size doesn't hold the sympathy for a loser. The crowd

FRIEDMAN SET FOR MONTE

At Friedman of Roslindale and Joe Monte of Brockton will do battle in the Garden Friday night and then the debonaire depot will close its doors to fights until April 25.

Monte has been training with Ug Gibson, Archie Skinner, Jack Moulton and Tom Kirby for the past week at Toland's gym. His punching has been so savage that now only Kirby is left as sparring. He will wind up his training tomorrow, supremely confident of victory over Friedman.

Pat McCarthy of Roxbury, now a full-blown heavyweight, will return to the ring to meet Sam Weiss of Philadelphia in the 10 round semi-final bout, and in the preliminaries, Jack McCarthy will be paired with Jimmy Mantell, Dan Regan with Jack Fugard, Mel Aragon with Al Linzi, Freddy Lattinzo with Gus Rochon, and Joe Vincha with Big Boy Burlap.

MACK SHOW PUT OFF TO MONDAY

Eddie Mack of the Argonne A. A has put off his show, scheduled for tomorrow night, until Monday. The managers of all the fighters have agreed to the shift and the card featuring Billy Wallace, Andy Callahan and the Perlick twins will go on as previously announced.

Mack was moved to make the change, because he figures, and wisely, that the Brun-Maroon playoff game at the Garden would attract the ring fans. The promoter, like most of Boston, had believed the Bruins would clean up the series in straight games.

Sonnenberg Sends Count to Hospital

Worcester Mass., March 28 (AP) Gus Sonnenberg, heavyweight wrestler, today had won his second match within a week by contests in which his opponents were so severely injured they were unable to continue.

Count George Zarynoff of Russia was tossed from the ring here last night after an hour and 11 minutes of wrestling and had his arm badly gashed on an iron ring support.

He was taken to the City hospital and Sonnenberg given the match. The Russian had had the better of the grappling.

Last Thursday night in Boston, Henri St. Glaus, French wrestler, left through the ropes with Sonnenberg on top of him and was taken to the hospital, unable to continue. He had won the first fall.

2 Tech Oarsmen Lost to Squad

Two M. I. T. varsity oarsmen were lost to the squad due to injuries and sickness. Fetters, stroke both in the varsity and junior varsity boats, will be lost for two weeks with a leg injury. MacLeod, who has been at No. 3 on the varsity, will be out for a week, due to a cold.

Tiger Six Off to Battle Arrows

The Tigers will leave for Philadelphia at 10:45 tonight and will meet the Arrows of the Quaker City in the first game of the Canadian American League playoff there tomorrow night. Every man on the Tigers' roster, Manager Eddie Powers and Trainer Frank Jones will make the trip.

The clubs look with confidence on the series with Philadelphia, if the Rengals can win or tie in Quaker City they will be decided favorites to mop up the total-game series when the second game is played in Boston Garden, Saturday.

The Tigers worked out in the Garden this morning and Manager Powers expressed himself as satisfied with the physical condition and mental attitude of the team.

Chicago Clubs Open Gates to Kids

Chicago, March 26 (AP) Good news for baseball hungry kids.

As a part of an organized campaign to reawaken interest in baseball among boys, all major league clubs may permit them to see free four or more games each week during the 1930 season.

Chicago's major league clubs, the Cubs and White Sox, already have agreed to have four "kids' days" a week and may increase the bargain to every day except Sundays and holidays.

With other club owners and Commissioner Kenesaw Landis behind the movement, other clubs, major and minor, are expected to follow suit.

Carnera Takes on Trafton Tonight

Kansas City, March 26 (AP)—Primo Carnera, 270-pound Italian carpenter, tonight will attempt to increase his string of knockout victories at the expense of George Trafton, Notre Dame and professional football star, who previously donned the padded gloves to defeat Art Shires, Chicago White Sox first baseman.

Although fans are frankly skeptical of Trafton's chances against the foreign man mountain, the former football player today expressed confidence that he will stay the limit.

Allison and Bride Off for Europe

Arsenal Soccer Team in the Final Round

Birmingham, Eng., March 26 (AP) Arsenal and Huddersfield town won their way to the final of the English Football Association cup competition today.

FEW CHANGES IN TEAM LIKELY

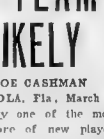
By JOE CASHMAN

PENSACOLA, Fla., March 26

Only one of the more than a score of new players brought South for a trial with the Red Sox four weeks ago is sporting the rating of a regular as the club is preparing to break camp and head for home.

After giving everybody an equal chance to prove his worth, Manager Bernie Wagner has finally split his squad into first and second teams so as the latter are intends to use at the start of the season may get used to working together, and the only rookie in the regular lineup is Tom Oliver.

The fly-chasing wizard from Little Rock is down as the centerfielder while Jack Rothrock, owner of that berth last season, is listed in right.



Joe Cashman

Otherwise, the team is the same as last season with Todt on first, Regan at second, Reeves at third, Rhyne at short and Scarrit completing the outfield trio.

All the pitchers and catchers were members of the team a year ago except Ben Shields, and there isn't a chance of the big southpaw being able to pitch regularly until the season is well under way.

Rookies Still Have Chance to Make Grade

The splitting of the squad doesn't mean that Wagner was definitely decided on his starting team as the contrary, he would prefer to present a team that packs more punch and if any of the second stringers show to advantage with the stick on the way North, more will be found for him among the regulars.

It does mean, though, that, to date, Oliver is the only new comer who has convinced the pilot that he is better than any of his more experienced rivals.

During the winter months when the prospects of the various big league outfits were being discussed, it was the consensus that such players as Sweeney, Miller and Winsett would strengthen the Red Sox considerably.

All had hit for a million more or less in the minors and would probably be the punch which would make the Wagners mighty dangerous, agreed the experts.

Not a word about Oliver. Either because he wasn't known or wasn't believed to possess the ability to make the grade, he was ignored entirely when he was drafted by the Athletics or, a few weeks later, when the Sox claimed him on waivers.

Yet the highly-touted rookies race will also run in the race for regular jobs while Oliver won himself on the very first day out, has what it takes to hold down it when the season opens, beyond a doubt.

Bob Quinn Has Had Poor Luck With Team

Bob Quinn hasn't had many breaks since he bought the Red Sox more than six years ago. He has spent several fortunes and tried out hundreds of ball players in a vain effort to make the club a winning club.

Todt he certainly was fortunate when he picked up Oliver and if luck stays with him and a few of the new men supposed to be wonders also come through, he may succeed in his ambition this year.

There is as much improbable as it may sound. None of the other recruits will probably ever become as great as Oliver, but from what we can learn, both Sweeney and Miller are very slow starters and much better ones when they ever appear to be in the spring.

Let them show enough to be made regulars and the Red Sox will be far stronger than they have been at any time during the past dozen years.

GRAND FINAL AT POLO GROUNDS

THE soccer championship of the United States will be at stake at the Polo Grounds, New York, on Sunday, when Fall River meets Bruell Insurance American Hungarians of Cleveland.

Fall River has won the cup, presented by Sir Thomas Dewar, twice.

"How can I say that Fall River will beat Bruell?" commented Sam Mark, owner of the New England club, in the course of an interview. "I have never seen them play, but I had a representative in Cleveland, so confident was I that my team would be in the grand final, and he reports that we shall possibly have greater difficulty in beating the insurance team than we had in disposing of Bethlehem.

"They have probably insured themselves against defeat," added Sam, with a smile. "And now I am beginning to wonder if we can bring home the bacon. We have got the cup final excitement, at least, if we have nothing else. That counts for a great deal. If we have luck, we've got the pluck.

It is a new experience for the Cleveland team to figure in the latter stages of the nationwide competition for soccer supremacy, and they are out to make history.

The team will reach New York, Saturday morning, brimful of enthusiasm—always value for much, in a cup tie particularly—and a rousing reception awaits them.

WOOD REPORTS TO HARVARD SQUAD TODAY

Coach Fred Mitchell of the Harvard varsity baseball team expects W. Barry Wood, the Crimson's three-sport star, to report for the nine this afternoon at the cage on Soldiers Field for the first time this season.

Wood has been resting during the past few days after a strenuous season with the hockey team.

Mitchell said that Wood would in all probability fill in at first base, where there is an opening at present.

On last year's freshman nine Wood was a second baseman, and one of he hardest hitters on the squad. He led the team in number of home runs, more than doubling the number scored by all other members of the team combined.

Sam Batchelder, in his second day of practice, indulged in a long batting drill, lacing out several long wallops from the offerings of Red McHale. He appears to be a logical man to fill in the position behind the plate vacant by Jim Dudley, who left college last June. Batchelder was also a member of the hockey team and delayed in reporting to reat up.

Tesreau Drops Three Green Veterans

Hanover, N. H, March 26—Jeff Tesreau, Dartmouth baseball coach, startled the players by dropping three former regulars on the eve of the squad's departure for a 17-game tour of the South.

In picking a group of 14 men, the Green coach replaced Howard Harvey, center fielder, and fastest man on the squad; Ed Stokes, first baseman, and Ed Jeremiah, infielder, who has been trying out at third base this season.

Coach Tesreau selected four hurlers for the trip. They are: Gunner Hollstrom, Lauri Myllykangas, Oliver Allen and Ward Thompson. Allen is a sophomore, while Thompson is also seeing his first varsity service.

The catching staff will consist of Capt. Bart McDonough, Hal Andres and Harold Bond. Of the five infielders chosen, Red Rolfe, who led the Eastern Intercollegiate League in batting last season, is the only player with varsity experience. The other four men are Joe Clough and Hank Barber, first basemen; Bill Walker, second base, and Tom Eagan, third base. Clough, one of the hardest hitters on the squad, was ineligible last year.

Only two outfielders, Ed Downey and Bill Mack, were selected for the trip. Mack is also a sophomore, making the eighth of the 14 players who will be seeking his first varsity service.

ART SHIRES, FORGIVEN, SIGNS UP

CHICAGO, March 26—Charles Arthur (the Great) Shires, one-time threat to the heavyweight boxing crown, according to himself, has returned to baseball as first baseman for the White Sox.

The "great one" agreed to all demands made by Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the White Sox, and was reinstated at $7500 a year, $17,500 less than he once said was his price.

When Shires left his Texas home last week, he said he was through with the White Sox and would play semipro baseball this summer and attempt to get on the voluntarily retired list.

He strolled into the White Sox offices, answered the question of Owner Comiskey had asked relative to his difficulties in the prize ring during the winter, promised to desist from fighting in and out of the ring and his contract and suspension troubles were over.

He left immediately for Texas. He will go home first and then report to Manager Donie Bush at the San Antonio, Tex., camp for duty.

BRUINS BEATEN BY MAROONS

part of the Bruin rushes and were practically the only Rossmen, who, in order to draw in the defense and give their wings a chance to get inside, tried to knife through such rugged body checkers, as Dune Munn, George Boucher, Red Dutton and Archie Wilcox.

In spite of the terrific punishment they took, neither Barry or Oainor had any complaints to offer. Gainor looked as though he had fought 10 rounds with some pug who had a great left hand jab.

Bruins Suffer First Shut-Out of Season

In spite of the fact that the Bruins were shut out for the first time this season, there was no disgrace attached to their defeat. They fought as few teams have ever fought and they took their loss like real sportsmen. Every man on the team gave everything he had and they went down fighting, which is all any club can be expected to do.

Capt. Fred Hitchman was elbowed by Hooley Smith in the overtime period and judging from his actions, he suffered intense pain for the remainder of the battle.

The fourth game of the series will be played at the Boston Garden tomorrow night and promises to be one of the most hectic battles ever fought in any hockey arena. Naturally last night's long hard game took a lot out of both teams and the Maroons will be weakened by the loss of George Boucher.

The rush seat boys began to gather at the Garden at noon yesterday. The doors were opened about 5 o'clock and a near riot started "Flat" Walsh, the Maroon goalie, gave his greatest exhibition. He was peppered from all angles and very often by the Bruins, but they were unable to beat him. He only missed the hospital squad when he was accidentally hit by Cooney Weiland's stick.

Archie Wilcox will be the fair haired boy with the Montreal fans. The former Rhode Island Red is dangerous at all times and he has been a valuable asset to the Maroons.

Odie Cleghorn came down from Montreal, but the heat of the Garden proved too much for the former Pittsburgh manager. If it was uncomfortable for the spectators, imagine how the players must have suffered. Also, the ice was none too good and at times the puck was uncontrollable.

Foster Bars Datto Montreal Bout

Providence, March 25 (AP)—Edward C. Foster, chairman of the Rhode Island State Athletic Commission, today said he would not issue a license for the proposed bout between Young Montreal of Providence, and Joonny Datto of Cleveland.

Montreal, he said, was "through" and he would want Datto t. guarantee to knock him out in the first round before he would sanction the proposed bout. His most recent victories include decisions over Enid Taylor of Terre Haute and Gaston Charles of France.

Today, in the real estate columns of the Classified Ads, you will find scores of opportunities for profitable investment.

SHERRY TRAINS FOR LEWIS

Jack Sherry, heavyweight champion of Ohio, started intensive training for his finish match with Ed "Strangler" Lewis at the Arena one week from tomorrow night.

The Ohio heavyweight, defeated but twice this year, trained at Arthur's gym on Cambridge st, with Al Thomas and a flock of sparmates, Sherry, rated as one of the most brilliant prospects in the country, has made countless friends in New England this year, and is confident that he will defeat the Strangler.

Sherry is one of the new crop of wrestlers to come to the front this year. Among their number is Bob "Ribber" McCoy, Henri Deglane, Ed George, Count Zarynoff and Sherry. They are the stars of tomorrow.

The semifinal bout is the greatest preliminary match Promoter Bowser has ever offered, for it will bring together Joe Malcewicz, Utica Panther, and Bibber McCoy, Cambridge favorite

Harvard to Elect Ice Captain Today

Lettermen of the Harvard hockey team will meet this afternoon to elect a leader for the 1930-31 sextet. The selection of a captain is among Hardy Ellis, regular goalie of Brookline, Sam Batchelder, defence player, of Milton, and Johnny Garrison, wingman, of Newton, all juniors.

Ellis is mentioned as the probable selection of his teammates. His outstanding feat in the cage in the Yale series, and his generally excellent play in all games on the Crimson ice during the past season, stamps him as a prominent and likely choice.

Braves Begin Barnstorming Trip Back to Boston

VETS MAY BE DISPLACED BY ROOKIES

By BILL CONNELL

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 26—Boston's Braves struck camp here today and prepared to start for Fort Myers, on the initial stage of their long barnstorming trek to the Allston tepee.

Tomorrow and Friday the Tribe tackles the World's Champion Athletics at Fort Myers, and then the clubs move to Miami, where they tilt on Saturday and Sunday.

At the conclusion of the training season of 1930, it is difficult to figure exactly what the Braves will do this year. They have looked much better than the team of '29, which wound up in the cellar, and have great possibilities.

Bill Connell

Three new men are on the club and seem certain to hold their positions through the start of the regular season. They are Randy Moore at third base, Johnny Neun at first and Walter Berger in left field.

Moore replaces Lester Bell at the hot corner and if the former comes through as expected, will make Hub fans forget all about Bell and other third basemen of the Braves of recent years.

Johnny Neun just now has pushed George Sisler out of the first base job. The veteran Sisler, a great hitter, may move into the job on the initial sack, but probably not before the opening of the season. Sisler has an injured leg muscle which may keep him out of steady play for some time.

Sisler Sure of Place as Pinch Hitter

A day or two ago Sisler could walk but he was limping badly. The next day George showed no trace of a limp, but Tuesday the sore muscle apparently again was bothering the first baseman.

Sisler himself says that the injury is unimportant, but this statement may be taken for the usual optimism of a veteran athlete.

There is no chance that Sisler will leave the Braves, though, even if he does not bust Neun onto the bench, for the veteran fills an important place with the team as a pinch hitter and coach.

Walter Berger takes the place of George Harper in the outfield and does a splendid job.

The addition of this trio to the Braves brings the average age of the team down a number of years, so that the Tribe is a really young ball club with a rosy future.

Lance Richbourg and Earl Clark, other outfielders of the Tribe have shown their worth in the past. Clark in particular looks great this year. He roams all over the outfield grabbing flies, and should have a fine season at bat.

Last year Clark ran into the fence at the start of the season, and was out of the lineup for some time. In the 60 odd games he played he hit for better than .300 and is likely to bat around .325 this year.

GOOD GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON
"Golf's Greatest Teacher"

Those who revel in precise details of the golf swing doubtless have encountered the theory that in the forward swing you should be, at the instant the ball is taken, in the exact address position with regard to the relation of the body to the ball and the stroke. Golf theorists who assume to be expert in expounding just how expert golfers do things, advance that theory always. It is obvious they would, because here is another instance in which the golfer does not do what he appears to do. The player who seeks to re-establish this bodily relationship to the ball as he strokes it away almost certainly will cause his club to drag. In the address your weight is rather evenly divided on the feet, while at the instant of taking the ball your weight still will be almost wholly on your right foot. It is a misconception to think of yourself as returning to the exact address position when taking the ball.

Risko and Friedman Are Ring "Spoilers"

"RUBBERY JAWN RISKO of Cleveland and Al Friedman of Roslindale may never become champions, but both of these young men will go down in ring history as 'Spoilers.'

"The late Tex Rickard was the first to refer to Risko as a 'Spoiler.' Old Rubbery Jawn did more than his share to hand Madison Square Garden a $300,000 loss in promoting the Dempsey-Heeney bout when he wrecked the so-called heavyweight elimination tournament.

"Schmeling then came along and knocked out Risko. Old Rubbery Jawn was then supposed to check out of the heavyweight division and settle down in his Cleveland mansion.

"Risko decided it was lack of condition rather than passing fistic senility which caused his downfall at the hands of the German Dempsey. So he went into rigid training and was soon back in his old role of 'The Spoiler.'

"When Madison Square Garden paid $45,000 to gain control of Vittorio Campolo, Risko was selected as the first build-up opponent. The difference in the size of Campolo and Risko was so startling that the New York commission banned the match. So it was taken to Miami where Risko beat Campolo, although he only got a draw.

"In a return tussle in New York Risko grabbed the duke. There is talk that the decision was unpopular, but the fact remains Rubbery Jawn ended up with the decision. Even if he did get a break from the officials he had one coming to him as he was done an injustice when only given a draw at Miami.

Friedman Has Also Dented Reputations

"AL FRIEDMAN has also been a 'Spoiler.' He has tackled all comers and has proved that some of the alleged terrors of the ring were just ordinary battlers.

"Tuffy Griffith was supposed to punch Friedman all over the Garden ring, but gave three cheers when he ended up with a close decision.

"Al will be back in our midst on Friday night, when he collides with Joe Monte at the Garden. The Roslindale heavyweight has always had his troubles when opposed by Monte. He has dropped nine decisions, as amateur and pro, to the Brockton warrior. Now he feels it is his turn to pick up a lot of revenge.

"There won't be anything fancy about the Friedman-Monte affair. It will be just a two-handed fight, which will please the cash customers.

"Friedman, like Risko, has done very well financially as he has gone around the country trading blows with all comers. He has never picked up any $100,000 purses, but he has had plenty of shots where he has got $2500 to $5000 for his services.

"Risko's biggest money match was when he received $27,000 for his last tussle with Sharkey in New York. Jawn gathered in $18,000 for beating Campolo in New York the other night, and has had plenty of touches of from $5000 to $10,000.

"Risko is worth $200,000, while Danny Dunn, his manager is rated around 100 grand. All this by keeping busy.

Dunn Never Passes Up a Match for Jawn

"I have known of cases where Dunn accepted $1500 for a bout just so as to keep the Cleveland warrior busy. Danny figures it is much more profitable for Risko to knock out some fourth rater and get $1500 for doing it than it is to pay the same fourth rater $25 a day to train with Rubbery Jawn. In 1927 Risko took part in 27 bouts which is a lot of fighting for any heavyweight.

"This was a sort of world's record until Friedman crashed through with a total of 28 contests last year. Al does his training in Fullmans and couldn't sleep if he didn't have rolling wheels under him."

B. U. Fencers No Match for Harvard

Harvard defeated Boston University, 9 to 0, in the first intercollegiate fencing match ever contested on the Boston University floor at the university gym., St. Botolph st.

FINAL BOUTS IN HARVARD BOXING

FISTIC honors will be decided at Harvard tonight when 22 surviving Crimson pugilists battle in the semifinal and finals of the university boxing championships.

The competition began a week ago, when six knockouts were scored as the Harvard leather-pushers waded through their preliminary tests. Tonight's fighting is expected to produce as many doses of shut eye, as only the strongest fighters remain to dispute the championships.

Abram Watchinsky, formerly captain of the Dartmouth boxing team and at present a student in the Harvard Law School, has one championship already to his credit.

With no competition in the 115-pound class, Watchinsky automatically becomes champ, and will match hooks and jabs with Ed Mascello in a semifinal 125-pound bout. Mike Pittoni and George Manierre will also fight a semifinal in this class, and the winners will clash for the title.

George Nawn will defend his title in the 135-pound class against Dave Ketchum, while Jerry Megna and Phil Lord will be matched in the same division. Megna and Lord both won their preliminary battles via the kayo route.

Camillus Angell and Al Carlisle will be rivals in the welterweight class, and the winner will meet Jim Mellen, who drew a bye.

Best Fighting in Heavy Divisions

The cream of the evening's fighting, however, will be found in the heavier divisions, especially the 160-pound class.

Tom Burke, who dropped his first opponent in 30 seconds of fighting a week ago will swap socks with Bill Robertson, varsity wrestling champion who also won his bout in no uncertain manner.

Another 160-pound bout brings Champion Ivy Light into the ring with Rafael Torres, who was a double winner a week ago. Light knocked out Moe Whitman with an eye smashing right hook in one round. Torres eliminated Joe Brennan in two sessions. Both Light and Torres pack murderous punches, and it may be only a question of who lands first that will decide the bout.

BOXING FANS ARE FICKLE

was with Jawn to a man—and woman—and all hands resented Victorio's assault upon the little fellow until Campy began outfumbling Risko. When the decision in favor of Jawn was announced, a huge booing arose behind the cheers for the winner and continued for quite a spell. Yes, indeed, "the fans are fickle."

* * *

I THOUGHT Campolo licked Risko in the Garden, just as I thought Risko licked Campolo in the bout at Miami that was called a draw. Well, Campy is entitled to the next one, and then they can fight the rubber. Nothing could be fairer than that.

The score to date is as follows:

Number of fights	3
Wrong decisions	3

I may have to revise my opinion about the people becoming a formidable heavyweight if he doesn't display more ferocity of attack.

His little brother of the pawpaws, old Senor Looey Angel Firpo of the dead pan, used to walk into the boys and blast away at 'em with a big right duke. Old Looey wouldn't wait for the lads to take a kick at him—he got that fust with the mostest punches.

Victorio lingers for the counter. He likes to have the other fellow lead. I am commencing to doubt the potency of his powerful punch but if he would walk into the enemy blazing away he would undoubtedly present a more formidable aspect.

RUBBERY BLUBBERY JAWN

RISKO is a bad match for a tall gander like Campolo. I don't care if they fought 50 times, Campy would always look awkward and uncouth against Jawn. Give the Beanpole tall, stand-up guys and he will look a hundred per cent better. He would belt that kind over in short order.

Now, let me show you something. Campolo gets no credit for fighting as tough an opponent as Risko. The Rubbery Blubbery one is cheered for beating a guy as big as Campy. And yet the Beanpole hasn't had more than 15 professional fights in his whole career, and no man of that sparse experience figures to beat an old campaigner like Risko.

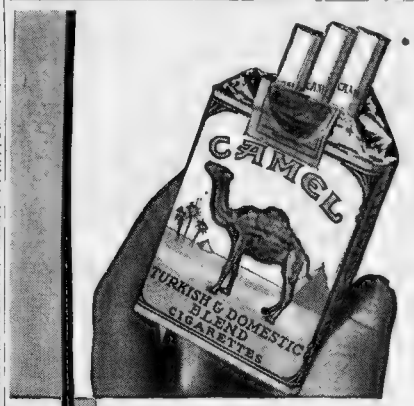
Babe Picks Yanks to Win Pennant

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 26 (AP)—Always an optimist, Babe Ruth is ready to show cause why he thinks the New York Yankees are going to win the American League pennant. The Ala, he says, reached top form in the World Series and "perhaps by now they've slipped."

The Yanks have been strengthened, Ruth explains. "Chapman will be all right at third if he hits the old apple a little harder. I don't see how Vernon Gomez can miss being a regular pitcher."



Turn this package over and

THE WORDS on the back of the package still mean what they say. No "extras," which do not contribute to the quality of the smoke, are included in the price of Camels. Just the utmost smoke-enjoyment that modern science can put into a cigarette.

That statement was on the first package of Camels manufactured and has been on every one of the billions of Camel packages sold from that day to this. When it was first written, other cigarette manufacturers were giving away flags, pictures of actresses, pictures of ball players—almost anything that would make the smoker think he was getting something extra for his money. The makers of Camels believed the smoker wanted a cigarette sold strictly on its merits, with all of its cost put into quality—a cigarette made of such excellent tobaccos—so perfectly blended—so mellow—so fragrant—that it would win its own way.

The vast popularity of Camels is a tribute to that four-square policy.

Don't look for premiums or coupons, as the cost of the tobaccos blended in CAMEL Cigarettes prohibits the use of them.

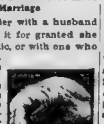
An Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

IS a wife happier with a husband who talks it for granted she is purely domestic, or with one who insists on sharing his interests with her?

Think this over, you girls who expect to be brides within a year or two, and consider, especially, the case of Peggy Z., who married, six months ago, a fine man, older than herself, who reads and studies during most of his free time.



Beatrice Fairfax

Peggy adores cooking, but she doesn't like to read. She is entirely happy, for the present, in seeing that her husband is comfortable and in making the little home glitter. Many men would let it go at that.

Peggy's husband doesn't.

"He believes that I am brighter than I really am," confides Peggy. "He begs me to study so that we can read together. He thinks we should learn to like the same things is this necessary?"

Necessary? I couldn't truthfully say that it is.

There have been many happy marriages between men of intellect and women who, scarcely ever opened a book in their lives. As we know, a woman may be very useful and very charming and yet remain a complete stranger to all those mysterious and fine-off things her husband reads about in books.

Some men naturally prefer a wife who limits herself to being sweet and charming, preparing a good dinner and taking conscientious care of his baby.

But I wonder whether the happiness that undoubtedly can exist in marriages like that lasts as well as the happiness that comes from sharing things.

Suppose Peggy makes an effort to look beyond the present contentment.

There is certainly danger that in a few years' time Peggy may find herself with a very serious rival on hand in the shape of her husband's books or interests wholly above her head.

Surely you have seen a wife become insanely jealous of a book that her husband seemed to prefer to her as a companion, when the truth was that the husband was the most innocent man in the world, with a quiet taste for geography; when the wife was a good, warm-hearted creature who simply wanted to make sure that she was loved; and when the book itself was just a plain, honest, everyday book, without a word of mischief or malice between its respectable covers

The truth is that Peggy, or any other newly married girl, is on the safe side if she agrees to share in any sane scheme her husband proposes, outside or inside a book.

It's really no hardship, if Ned has a love for polar exploration, to let him confide to you the newest secret about the Arctic. Even if his special interest is one that you imagine bores you a little, that's probably only because you still don't know much about it.

In any case don't forget to thank your guardian angel that you've married a man who has the idea of living his real life with you rather than without you. It's the husband who prefers to enjoy his pleasures alone who is really difficult for a girl to adjust her life to.

You'll be a lot happier, and a far better mate, as well as wife, if you let your husband educate you as much as he's able to. And if you're the kind of girl who can surpass him in his own field, as many do, now and then, so much the better.

Girl Unafraid -:- By Gladys Johnson

"It's that story, isn't it?" asked Ken. "That thing in the Spy?" His voice was tight. "Well, yes," she answered. "Get in the car, sweetheart, we can't talk here."

. . . To lose her heart to Ken—Ken, who was going to marry another.

Marry Cecile . . . Oh! She caught her lip between her teeth and her face went white and cold. Ken—holding Cecile in his arms—kissing her . . .

She was crying, soft helpless tears which drained her heart of bitterness and left her limp on the sand, staring up into the empty sky with wet swollen eyes.

Hours passed unheeded—a lonely eternity of time. She might have been on a desert island, she thought dully. The hollow roar of the ocean beating into her ears—a sound somehow mournful. Watching the faint grey shadow of gulls sailing over the dunes. Bunch grass blowing in the wind, now and then a gleam of silver as the light caught a broad blade.

Changing light warned her that it was getting late She rose wearily and shook the sand from her clothes. She didn't want to get home so late that she would have to explain to Aunt Stel . . . Her heart was too sore tonight for explanations.

"Ardeth—where have you been all day!"

She answered dully. "Does it matter?"

"You know it does!" hotly Jeanette said you were ill But all home they know nothing when I phoned."

"You phoned!"

His eyes were piercing now. Of course, and then I drove up here. I was going to wait until you came if it took all night." He grasped her elbow. "We can't talk here—get in the car."

She wrenched her arm away "No!"

"Its that story, isn't it?" That thing in The Spy?" His voice was tense.

"Well—yes"

He gave a short little laugh which was harsh. "I knew it. Well! Get in the car—we have to talk —"

"No"

"Yes, I said" the worlds came between his clenched teeth. Then his eyes were pleading. "Ah, sweetheart . . . I've been nearly crazy . . . We can't talk here! Sweetheart, please" —

She got in the car.

Spring Fever Often Due to Heavy Eating

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
U. S. Senator From New York. Former Commissioner of Health.

Dr. Copeland

THIS is the season to get out "in meadow or plain" No matter where you go—in the woods, in the parks, or anywhere in the great out-of-doors. Do this for your health.

When the first warm days of spring appear, the balmy air beckons you forth. This is a time to catch upon the health score. Do you feel that nothing in the world can possibly "pep you"?

Perhaps you have had a hard winter. It may be that members of your family have had sickness. Well, now it is all over, and spring is at hand! There is something about the smelly, delightful days of spring that gives you life.

This is the time to take heed of all nature. Every green thing is an evidence of new vitality. Soon the trees begin to put on a new dress of green. In the country or in the parks there is the smell of the earth, the rushing of streams, the last melting spots of snow.

Did you ever visit the mountains at this season? One such day comes to my mind—a day in my own home mountains in April. The days of sparkling cold but bright sunshine, the first warm day appeared. Rivulets of water from a ceiling snow, gave way to rushing streams. The trees of the mountainsides burst forth in a day, almost, in pastel shades of green. I feel sorry for one who has never seen the mountains in Spring.

This is the time of the year to take stock of your health.

Be out-of-doors all you possibly can. If you are a city dweller, be out on the avenue or get into the parks in the sunshine.

How the babies enjoy these Spring days in the park! Grown-ups and children mingle with the crowds in the fresh air and sun. We lack sunshine so much in Winter that there is the greater need now.

Perhaps you will arrange to go on that fishing trip you have thought of for so long. A day, or a week-end away in the country can do much to add to your store of health. Your outlook on life will be changed. Everybody who can should enjoy every moment possible out-of-doors.

After the Winter months of hard work or strenuous social engagements, when most persons have held to a rather heavy diet, a change to lighter foods should be made at this season. Not so much food is needed in the warmer months. Eat plenty of the leafy vegetables and fresh fruits.

Every chance for good health is yours if you will use intelligent care. Make it a rule in these few months to build for health, to build up reserve energy, and have all the relaxation and recreation possible. Look out for your teeth, have a physical examination to see if you are fit, and then enjoy life!

E. S Q.—What is a good definition of "muscle-bound?"

A.—Affected with a form of muscular trouble characterized by lessened ease of elasticity. Frequently seen in athletes—due to excessive exercise. This term is the popular one to describe such tightness or tenseness of muscles.

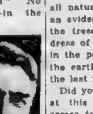
What Baby Needs in Shoes

By CONSTANCE CAMERON

BABY shoes have long been the subject for song themes and poems. We have for a long while murmured sentimental awes at things about them, but I feel that we have thought far too little about baby shoes from a common sense standpoint—namely, at the time baby needs them and we are making their purchase.



Constance Cameron

Baby's shoes are no longer merely a small pair of our big shoes. Many firms specialize in foot coverings for the tiny member of the family and it is high time we acquainted ourselves with the excellent product at our disposal.

It is indeed a task to take our youngest downtown and buy shoes that we are not just right for him. A very young child can be of little help in telling you if the shoe fits and the up-to-date methods we must use ourselves to judge this competently.

Look at your small child's foot tonight when you take off his shoes. Little red spots on the top of the toe indicate a pressure and possibly a shoe which is so short as to cramp the toes back, thus pinching a tender toe joint.

Before you blame this entirely on the shoe, however, make sure that baby's stockings haven't shrunk and become too short for him. This condition will also cramp the small toes into an unnatural position. On the other hand, sox which are too long tend to double up in large creases and cause irritation.

Shoes for a small child should be purchased an inch or half inch longer than the foot, and wide enough to allow the toes to spread freely. Watch for new shoes that bind the little arch too tightly and thus prevent proper development. Try to buy shoes which have a firm grip at the heel so that the foot will not slip down and cause a chafing and which will give the baby a firm leverage in walking.

Cheap shoes for a tiny child are not economy, and cause untold foot trouble later. And it is not economy to make a child wear a shoe one instant after it has become too small, or after his foot has developed so that it no longer fits into the shoe properly. Discard at once all shoes which are not a proper, comfortable fit. Economize on other things if you must, but keep baby's feet comfortable. Give them room to grow, and buy shoes which give the toddler proper support and protection from rough surfaces.

If your child has weak ankles or feet which are abnormal in any way, do not rely on mother's advice, no matter how well intended as to ankle braces and such cure rivances. Take the child to your family physician and let him suggest what kind of foot covering is needed. Remember that a little child's body will respond to curative measures much more quickly than the body of the older child or adult, and the fault may be speedily remedied if you get proper advice to start with.

Good to Eat

SPRING salads have the call these days—which makes salad dressings an equally timely topic.

The French dressing is not in as common use as the boiled and mayonnaise type, but can be varied with tomato, Roquefort cheese, grape fruit, etc., in the most interesting ways—and really these French dressings are usually lighter in calories than the other types.

Martha Lee

A tart grapefruit dressing is not to be familiar as I think it should be, since it is very easily made by mixing 2 tbsps. of olive oil, 2 tbsps. lemon juice, 1 tsp. salt, ¼ tsp. paprika and 2 tbsps. of tomato catsup or chili sauce. This should be well shaken in a bottle or jar until it forms a thick emulsion, then it is spooned over the hearts of lettuce. Iceberg lettuce, by the way, is now served in thick slices, rather than in quarters, as it is much easier to handle with your salad fork.

A tart grapefruit dressing is very nice and easily made by mixing together 6 tbsps. of salad oil, 3 tbsps. of grapefruit juice, 1 tbsp. of lemon juice, 1 tsp. of salt, ¼ tsp. pepper, ¼ tsp. sugar and 2 tbsps. of chopped watercress or parsley. This should be shaken in a jar until thick and smooth and is particularly good on fruit salads which are not served for the dessert course.

But perhaps the favorite of all is a Roquefort cheese dressing served on hearts of lettuce. I cannot claim that there is nothing better in seven states than this dressing.

ROQUEFORT

INGREDIENTS
- 6 tbsps. olive oil.
- 3 tbsps. vinegar.
- 1 tsp. salt.
- ¼ tsp. pepper.
- 4 tbsps. grated Roquefort cheese.
- 4 tbsps. heavy cream.

METHOD

Mix to emulsion the salad oil, vinegar and salt and pepper by shaking well in a jar or bottle. Break ripe Roquefort cheese into small bits with a fork or grate it coarsely. Add cream, beat heavy cream or sweet cream slowly and stir thoroughly together. Then add the French dressing slowly, creaming the cheese and pour over crisp lettuce. Serve with wholewheat crackers or graham toast and a glass of milk and you have a perfectly balanced meal.

Faithfully yours,
MARTHA LEE.

Lovejoy -:- Serial by Beatrice Burton

CHAPTER 64

"GET Lovejoy out of the room and you stay out, too," Norrie's voice was crisp and commanding. "And call up to see if the doctor is on his way."

Lovejoy got up from the floor herself and went out of the room. She was like a dazed and frightened child as she let Tom lead her down the hall and into the living room.

"You'd better lie down, Lovejoy," he said to her. "You're all in."

He stood with his back to the room, watching out of the window for Dr. Arnott. Lovejoy lay looking at him.

"God" he said once, and in that one short word was all the impressiveness and the pleading of a prayer.

The doctor came with a pair of trousers and an overcoat pulled on over his pajama suit. He was the old fashioned kind of doctor who knows when he is needed and gets there.

He shut himself into the baby's room with Norrie.

It must have been a half-hour later that Aunt Em woke up.

She came into the room where Lovejoy and Tom were sitting.

"Baby worse?" she asked, and when she heard that he was she started for the sick room just as fast as she could go.

"No, you can't go in there!" It was Tom who stopped her. "The doctor's there with Norrie, and they're doing everything that they can for young Tommy. The best thing we can do is to stay out—all of us."

He was standing in front of the empty fire-place, fingering a small pink object that lay on the mantel shelf.

After a while, when Aunt Em went out into the kitchen, he showed that little pink object to Lovejoy.

It was the candle that had stood on Tommy's birthday cake.

"Just think—ten days ago that little kid was fine and husky," he said. "Aunt Em baked him a birthday cake and covered it with pink frosting. He ate some of it—just a small piece—and he loved it. He'd have eaten the whole thing with the candle thrown in, if we'd let him have it."

He dropped the candle into the pocket of his shirt.

"That was the last good feed he had," he went on. "He was taken sick the morning afterward. Aunt Em says babies often are sick in hot weather like this."

Lovejoy turned her wet eyes up to him.

"Don't any of you realize that it must have been the cake that made the baby sick?" she asked. "Think of giving a tiny year-old baby cake with pink frosting on it!—Oh, I'll only be here—"

She buried here face in the pillows of the old couch.

"Can't you see that that's what is killing me?" she sobbed. "If I hadn't left my baby thus wouldn't have happened!—I might have known that Aunt Em with her old-fashioned notions about raising babies, would feed him all sorts of things to make him sick — If Tommy dies it's my fault! I should have been here on the job!"

Tom did not try to comfort her.

"You certainly never should have left him," he said bluntly. "If you got tired of me—why, that was your own business. But you should have stood by the baby. At least, until he was old enough to take care of himself. . . . And another thing, if Ogilvay loves you the way he says he does he'd have wanted you to have your baby with you."

"He does," said Lovejoy. "He's taken a house in Minden for us. He's going to hire a nurse for Tommy. He wants me to have Tommy when I'm married to him."

Before Tom had time to say a word Aunt Em came into the room.

She was shaking her head mournfully. She said: "Norrie's in with the baby—and the doctor is goin down on the couch in my room."

Her eyes went from one to the other of them gravely. "I guess he's pretty scared about Tommy or he wouldn't stay right here," she went on "I don't believe he thinks the baby is going to live—"

"Oh, Aunt Em" Lovejoy's hands flew to her throat, clutching it "You don't think the baby is really going to die—"

She turned blindly to Tom. "Tom —our baby—"

She stretched out her hands toward him and he took them in his His drew her down against his shoulder, smoothing back her hair from her forehead where cold perspiration had broken out like dew. He laid his cheek against her head.

"Now, just a minute, Lovejoy," Hold on a minute" he said, as if he were afraid she was going to faint. "If the baby were dying they'd tell us so, wouldn't they? And the doctor wouldn't go calmly into Aunt Em's room and take a nap, would he?"

He shoved her gently back against the pillows of a couch

"I'll go and ask Norrie how he is," he said

Lovejoy jumped up. "Don't leave me, Tom. Let me go with you," she said with a little cry of terror

She caught him by the hand and they went through the dark, silent rooms that way

Norrie had come out of the baby's room. She was wiping her eyes with her handkerchief

But when she spoke her voice was steady enough

"I was just coming to tell you," she said, "that the baby is safer. The fever's breaking"

Lovejoy's hold on Tom's hand tightened. "But that terrible way he was breathing, Norrie—what was that?" she asked.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

MAKING MEN MARRIAGE-MINDED

ONCE upon a time, this Land was famous for the plentifulness of its marrying men, the chivalry of its lovers and the dutiful devotion of its husbands.

Now over half a million American girls are vainly looking for suitable husbands, and facing the bleak alternative of single spinsterhood, according to a frank confession in a recent magazine.

And there's a reason. American men are no longer marriage-minded. They no longer think in terms of engagement rings, rose-covered bungalows, insurance policies and perambulators. They think in terms of motor cars and petting parties.

APPARENTLY, woman, after a swift whirl around the primrose way, has gotten right back to where she started. She wants a husband. A husband of her OWN! Just borrowing another woman's husband may have been the favorite pastime of the wild young things of the post-war generation, but it does not satisfy the girls of the new "younger generation."

They are not content to be just a little side-dish in a married man's life. They want to be the whole feast in some man's life. Why not?

BUT, if ever their dreams are to come true, they will have to get out their little primers and begin educating the men all over again. And getting a new idea into a man's head is almost as much of a feat as refilling a non-refillable bottle.

The first rule for getting a husband of your own is not to waste your time playing around with other women's husbands. A flirtation in the life of a married man is just a little detour, which, nine times out of ten, leads right back to the old door-mat and the protection of his wife's skirts.

The second rule is not to make a bachelor's life such a long, awful lone-some and such a continuous petting party that he will be loath to exchange it for a lullaby and a fireside.

The wild girls of the post-war generation succeeded in ruining the best lot of husbands, potential and actual, that the world has ever known. It was the women, themselves, who gave the marriage-minded American man the perfectly new and startling idea that he could take-or-leave-it, and leave it alone. That he need not take it seriously. That he need not untie himself from all the other women, just in order to tie himself to one woman.

ALL of which is very hard on the clear-eyed young woman of today, who finds that she is living half a life—and doesn't see much chance of getting the "better half."

It will take many years to undo the rough work of the jazz decade and even then it will be a slow process. Ideas do not blossom like the rose; they are of slow geological formation.

UNLESS the girls are fast working, it will take another ten years for woman to regain her control of the love situation and teach man the lesson that love is more than a temporary dalliance; that marriage is a privilege, not a punishment; and that man must put here to be man's life companion, not just a plaything for his amusement and convenience.

It will take another decade to make men marriage-minded.

Fads and Fashions

Corral Some Coral for that stone is becoming increasingly popular with white frocks, especially for evening wear. A little string of twisted coral has a large carved coral pendant with a twisted coral fringe which matches the coral buttons and tiny crystal drops.

A Leaning to Linen is discernable in the current modes. Very attractive is a suit of white linen with stitching around the skirts, pockets, collar and cuffs of the jacket. The skirt has a diagonally buttoned closing at front. The blouse of handkerchief linen is trimmed with pin tucks and tied with a large self-bow.

Seeing Red won't be difficult or dangerous this season, for much red is being displayed, also dresses with more than a touch of red. The red and white combination is especially good on a frock of white with embroidered red dots. Diagonal lines of red appear at the front are piped in red, the same piping being employed at the neckline and at the edges of a large jabot.

A Sparkling Fashion is that of embroidered white frocks with straas and crystal embellishment. A frock of white georgette with a straw girdle, and a short flaring skirt has an all-over pattern of flowers and leaves developed in straw medallions and crystal. A matching coat has the same embroidery in pearls and straas.

Household Hints

Here's one that the Earl of Sandwich didn't know when he thought up that idea of putting two slices of bread together with something in between. Yes, a sandwich is the "piece de resistance" of the light refreshment menu, but it must be daintily cut, such a nuisance to cut off the crusts on each one. Not, however, if you take a sharp knife in hand and cut off the crusts with a big sharp knife before cutting the bread in thin slices. Then there are no ragged edges on the thin sandwiches after they are cut.

Damp sawdust sprinkled on a dusty floor before sweeping will prevent the dust from rising. It may be used also as a protection when a room is being painted and it is not convenient to take up the linoleum. A thick layer of sawdust will absorb any paint that may be spilled.

How to Announce Marriage

By MRS. BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. My engagement was recently announced at a luncheon given in my honor, and we expect to be married shortly, but we are at a loss how to announce our marriage. I have not lived with my parents for the past four years, and we are not on speaking terms, which fact is known to our friends. I have no brother nor relatives to have made my home with a friend, a maiden lady, during this time. Would it be correct for us to send an announcement of our marriage with just our names on it?

2. If not, how should such an announcement be worded?

Wollaston. ETHEL P.

1. Under these circumstances, the form that I recommend is for you and your fiance to make your own announcement.

2. The form is this:

MR. GEORGE ALAN LANE
and
MISS ALTHEA PHELPS
announce their marriage
on Tuesday, the first of March nineteen hundred and thirty.
Chicago, Illinois

If you prefer the phrase in the fourth line may read: "Have the honor of announcing their marriage."

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1—Should an acknowledgment of a wedding announcement be made?

2—If so, should you address the envelope to the mother and in the acknowledgment refer to Mr. and Mrs. Blank, and express happiness for the bride and groom?

3—When an equal status exists—if inquirer is an acquaintance—would your reply to a telephone call be "Miss Brown is at the phone," and also "Miss Brown would like to speak to Miss Smith"?

Wellesley. MARY M.

1—It is not customary to do this, because of the "news" nature of the formal announcement. However, if you wish to, it is in perfectly good form to do so.

2—Yes.

3—If the telephone call is a social call, and if, as you say, the social status is equal, it would be more natural to say, "Miss Smith, this is Eleanor Brown." I am assuming that Miss Brown and Miss Smith are only acquaintances, not friends.

If the call is a business one, "Miss Brown," or "Miss Eleanor Brown" is more appropriate.

By the way, the abbreviation phone is not a word in good standing. The correct word—telephone—is vastly better.

Three-Minute Journeys Abroad

By TEMPLE MANNING

ACROSS the bay from Naples is one of the most beautiful and famous resorts in all Italy—Sorrento. For more than a 1000 years (although it seems incredible) this has been a famous warm-weather resort, and justly so.

Sorrento is located on a plateau between two mountainous promontories on the Italian coast. This plateau is some 200 feet above the blue waters of the Mediterranean. Many of the buildings, especially the hotels, have been placed on the very edge of this plateau, so that one may look out his window or stand on his balcony and experience a feeling of great height and detachment from the earth. The beauty of the vista is almost unsurpassed.

At the foot of this cliff is a small strip of bathing beach, with its row of gayly-colored cabanas or bathhouses. In the process of modernizing and improving, the hotels of Sorrento have constructed elevators which run from the top of the cliff to the beach. They prove a convenience, to be sure, yet it seems almost TOO civilized! Too unnatural, to say the least.

Sorrento is primarily a resort, and its attraction is almost completely in the beauty of the scenery. However, there is always carriages available in the main square, and in one of these you may ride through the outskirts of the town and enjoy the new views which each turn seems to offer.

Sorrento is a stop on the boat route from Naples to Capri, that beautiful Island gem with the famed Blue Grotto. If you are ever in Naples, or plan to visit Capri, be sure to plan on a visit to Sorrento Do not give it a mere day, but plan to stay several days, basking and resting in the warm sunshine and mild breeze of this beauty spot.

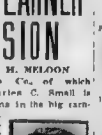
AMERICAN ICE IN BIG EARNER DIVISION

By FRANK H. MELOON

American Ice Co., of which Malcolm Chace, Jr., Small is president, remains in the big earner division, despite the inroads of electric refrigeration. American Ice, of which Boston Ice Co. is a subsidiary, reports 1929 earnings of $5,431,124 as compared with $3,202,362 in 1928.



Charles C. Small

Since President Small left Kennebunkport, learning the ice business from a horse-drawn wagon to the present day, many changes have taken place. Ice was formerly harvested by the big company from the ponds and lakes scattered over New England. Now the company makes its own ice, 95 per cent of that sold in addition being manufactured in the company's own plants right here at home.

Discussing "Prospects of Motor Industry for 1930," Ray B. Prescott, consulting engineer, predicted series of mergers in automobile industry, with three or four large companies taking over many of the smaller companies. He based opinion on position and sales figures showing that the two largest companies dominate 65 per cent of the market and can offer 40 per cent of the lowest prices section.

Big executives are mostly cheerful. Business of Dussenberg, Inc., in 1930 should increase by about 000 over 1929, according to present indications, H. T. Ames, vice-president, reported today. Dussenberg is a subsidiary of Auburn Automobile Company.

"Parts and materials commitments are being released totaling more than $1,250,000 in addition to materials already on hand," Mr. Ames said. "Shipments to us now are keeping pace with our expanded 1930 manufacturing schedule.

"Our inventory position now is moderate, being only sufficient to run us at the present rate of maximum production for about 30 days. Since our unfilled orders assure full production for 60 days, we are certain that our new releases of more than $1,250,000 will be necessary to maintain our 1930 schedule."

Zeppelins Seen On Scheduled Atlantic Trips

By B. C. FORBES.

NEW YORK, March 26—That Zeppelins will by and by be crossing and increasing the Atlantic on regular schedule is assured by the ample financial support extended to Dr. Hugo Eckener, by Charles E. Mitchell, head of the National City Bank, and other responsible interests. Mitchell has been the sponsoring of the United Aircraft Corporation, which is headed by F. B. Rentschler, brother of Gordon S. Rentschler, president of the National City Bank.

B. C. Forbes

Talking of trans-Atlantic travel, General Passenger Agent Owen A. Smyth, of the United States Lines, says: "Bookings on the Leviathan and the other ships of the line show a marked increase. In fact, bookings are well above normal and there is but little cabin space available on sailings from early in May to the end of August."

The showing made thus far by income tax returns suggests that there were extensive profits as well as losses incurred in the stock market last year. As a matter of fact, many of the "paper" gains could very freely before the smash came. It didn't take superhuman wisdom to reason that most shares had reached absolutely unwarranted heights and that drastic reaction was inevitable.

Incidentally, many who made big profits during the rise re-entered the market during the panic and bought very extensively. It is entirely possible that during the current year, some stocks generously well many of the tax returns to be made out next March. It is not at all unlikely that good stocks bought during the panic will eventually yield rich profits as it was that stocks bought at the height of the boom would eventually show severe losses.

Politicians are wonderful promisers, but not such wonderful performers. While the British politicians were coaxing British voters to entrust the government of the nation to them, they declared that they would make short work of unemployment, that they would cure it in fifty days.

The cold fact is that when Ramsay MacDonald's party took office last year the unemployed totaled 1,100,000. The number now unemployed is 1,539,000, an increase in unemployed of almost 40 per cent.

Wall Street is speculating on another reduction in the Federal Reserve Bank rate at New York this week. All things considered, it would be preferable not to make another cut at this time. If need rise, such action should be taken later.

A scallop advance would still seem to be the course the stock market is most likely to follow this year.

CURB PRICES WORK HIGHER

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER

New York, March 26.—The curb market continued to work higher today, although price movements were largely narrow.

The sharp downturn on the big board late yesterday made traders in this market rather hesitant during the early hours of trading, but a strong rally in Electric Bond and Share helped to restore confidence as the session wore on.

A feature of the day was American Light & Traction, which rose up 15 points to a new high for the year in response to the proposed 4-for-1 stock splitup. The new stock was admitted to trading on a when issued basis, and sold relatively higher than the old shares, attracting the attention of arbitrage operators.

Electric Bond & Share, which has been under considerable pressure of late, rallied several points in active trading. Cities Service Light "A" was also in good demand. The United Gas issues were active and firm. American & Foreign Power warrants eased.

Several of the recent favorites among industrials rose a little further into new high ground, including Deere new stock, American Can, American Tobacco "B" and A. O. Smith. The last named is a large producer of heavy pipe, has been primarily influenced by disclosures of large natural gas projects.

Pilot Radio sold up fractionally to a new high for 1930 in response to announcement of the formation of a new company to take over its radio tube business. Stock of the new company would be distributed to Pilot stockholders. Canadian Pacific new stock was firm in response to stockholders' approval of the splitup.

Oil shares were largely firm. Humble made a substantial gain, and Standard of Kansas sold at a new high ground. Gulf, however, sold off a little.

BOND MARKET TRADING IS MORE QUIET

By JOHN L. COOLEY

New York, March 26 (AP)—The bond market was dull today and the volume of trading declined. Call money, plentifully offered, renewed at 3½ per cent against the 4 per cent renewal rate yesterday, but time funds firmed in the longer maturities.

High-grade rails were quiet. Utilities and industrials displayed considerable firmness, with oil company bonds finding a good demand.

Small gains in Canadian National 5s, Cleveland Union Terminal 5s, Illinois Central 4½s, International Cement 5s, New York Edison 5s, St. Louis-San Francisco 4½s, United States Rubber 5s and Union Pacific 4½s were accompanied by minor recessions in Northern Pacific prior lien 4s, American Telephone 5s, International Paper 5s and New Orleans Public Service 5s. However, trading was relatively inactive in most sections of the list.

American Telephone 4½s rose a point, Baltimore & Ohio convertible 4½s, Commercial Investment Trust 5½s, American International 5½s and Allegheny 5s were firm.

Foreign bonds again advanced, although their rate of progress was slow. Free State 5s equalled their top at 97½.

Liberty Fourth 4¼s, the most active issue in the government group during the earlier dealings, sold off slightly.

The New York, Chicago & St. Louis railroad's $12,000,000 issue of refunding 4½s, maturing in 1975, was offered at 97½. Vancouver, B. C., sold at $4,058,000 loan in 5s, priced to yield 5 to 4.90.

Prospective new financing includes a $7,000,000 issue of General Baking Company 10-year debenture 5½s.

FROZEN FOODS FIND FAVOR

The experimental campaign in the field of quick-frozen meat, fish, oyster, fruit and vegetable distribution, being conducted by the General Foods Corp. at Springfield, Mass., through its subsidiary, Frosted Foods Co., which owns the Birdseye Quick Freezing Process, has revealed a gratifying public acceptance of these new products, states Colby M. Chester, Jr., president.

"Foods were placed on sale March 8, in 10 retail outlets," he says.

"Products embrace 21 cuts of meat, fillets of sole and cod, oysters, peas, spinach, raspberries and pitted cherries.

"After a day or so of novelty buying, a substantial repeat business developed and sales to date have shown a constant increase in all stores."

Acceptance Rate Advances Ordered

First National-Old Colony Corp quotes bankers acceptances as follows: 30 days, 4 per cent to 2⅞ per cent, up ⅛ of 1 per cent; 60 and 90 days 2⅞ to 2⅜ per cent, up ⅛ of 1 per cent; four months 3 per cent to 2⅜ per cent, up ⅛ of 1 per cent; five and six months, 3 per cent to 2⅝ per cent, unchanged.

LABOR REPORTS SHOW GAIN IN WORK

Washington, March 26—Trade union reports to the American Federation of Labor for March show the first decrease in unemployment decreased from 38 per cent in February to 37 per cent in March.

Musicians' unions reported an increase in the number of men out of work from 28 per cent in February to 35 per cent in March. Building trades employed more men, printing and metal trades employed less.

"Even the slight increase in the figure for the country as a whole is cause for optimism as it comes a month sooner than in the unemployment crisis in 1928, when there was no decrease until April," report said.

"Owing to the unusually large number out of work this year, it will undoubtedly be a long time before unemployment reaches normal proportions."

BRITAIN TO FOIL GANDHI PLAN

Surat, Bombay Presidency, India, March 26 (AP)—Reports today were that the Government does not intend to permit Mahatma Gandhi's civil disobedience marchers to violate the salt laws at Jalalapur.

Highly placed revenue and police officials have been paying frequent visits to Jalalapur, where Gandhi plans to manufacture salt at the gulf of Cambay in defiance of the government's monopoly and other precautions are understood to have been taken.

Drys in Power as Maine G. O. P. Meets

Bangor, Me., March 26 (AP)—Republicans converged today on this city for the party's biennial state convention, expected by leaders to be the quietest in a number of years, no contentious political problem loomed on the platform horizon.

Prohibition, which led to polemics at the regular Democratic state convention, is non-controversial in Republican ranks, Chairman Daniel E. Pond of the state committee reported. He indicated the strong "probability" of an unyielding dry plank in the platform.

Recapture Student in New York Slaying

Garfield, N. J., March 26 (AP)—Recaptured in the home of an aunt after his escape from jail, Alphonse Mierlese, 19, former Blair Academy student, was held in New York bid for murder and robbery, is in a cell here today.

He was arrested March 12, as one of four youths indicted for killing an unidentified Negro in the holdup of a New York cigar store on January 26. He entered Blair Academy a week after the shooting.

Police Tug Fails to Draw One Bid

The police tug Guardian, for more than 30 years on duty in Boston harbor, offered at a mere $7000 as a knockdown price at auction, failed to induce even a single bid.

The price of $7000 had been placed as the value of the boat by Captain George A. Perry, harbor master, who guided her wheel for many years. The keel of a new and larger police tug is to be laid next week.

Helen Twelvetrees Gets Her Divorce

Providence, March 26 — When Martin S. Smith of North Scituate stood in Swan Point Cemetery at the burial of Frederick J. Armington, he said tribute to his last comrade of Rodman Post, No. 12, G. A. R.

During the past year Smith, who is 85 years old, and Armington, who was 94, were the only members of the post which once numbered 138 men. Now Armington is gone.

LARGEST EVENING CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND

Laziness and Crime

Workers Rarely in Trouble

WE have been accustomed these latter years to hearing prohibition blamed for the youth of most of the criminals who fall into the hands of the police and the courts.

Now comes Judge Frederick A. Crafts, of Newton, Assistant District Attorney of Middlesex County. He places the average age of the criminal of today at between 19 and 23 years. This is younger than at any time in the history of the country. Basing his statement on the facts of court records, Judge Crafts reveals what is indeed a startling condition.

Here is his explanation of the cause:

"Pure laziness, greed and a desire to live like a millionaire without working for it."

Older men and women know that one of the chief causes of happiness in life is work, but you can rarely tell this to youth. Parents who wisely bring up their children to work are building for them a sure and safe foundation for later life. Workers are rarely in trouble.

Step Lively, Boys

Your Uncle Samuel Is Taking Names for His Camps

THOSE New England youths who want to go to the 1930 Citizens' Military Training Camps had better step lively and present themselves at the captain's office for enrollment. Soon, too.

Out of 300 places allotted to this New England area, almost two-thirds are gone, and with this announcement there is no doubt that the remaining places will be speedily taken.

The Military Training Camps Association is the principal enrollment agency for the camps, which are to be held from July 5 to August 3 of this year.

Uncle Sam does a lot for the boys who join his camps, and what they acquire there is exceedingly valuable to them in civilian life. This is a great opportunity for youth.

Spending Millions

Massachusetts Doing Its Share to Help

NEW work on state roads and expenditures for care of old ones, as well as work planned by various state commissions, the whole amounting to about $3,000,000, is almost ready to get under way. Bids for some of it will be open April first, according to the announcement by Governor Allen. A few weeks will see the money going to those whom it will do the most good, putting hundreds of men at work.

Julius H. Barnes, chairman of President Hoover's Business Survey Conference, adds to the cheerful news by telling us that the business survey shows that the situation has greatly improved and is growing steadily better. In all lines most favorable reports are had by Mr. Barnes, and Massachusetts is doing its share.

AMONG the many viewers-with-alarm in America is Dr. Albert H. Wiggam, scientist and author, who told a meeting of teachers:

"Morons are multiplying much faster than college professors, business men or skilled workmen. If you take 1000 Yale or Harvard graduates, at the present birthrate there will be only fifty descendants of theirs within the next six generations. But 1000 unskilled workmen, at the present rate, would have 100,000 descendants within the same period.

"Civilization is making the world safe for STUPIDITY."

Dr. Wiggam's words will not please many of us. Looking on the bright side of things, without much attention to whether they are not true, is a national habit.

That is one reason for thinking that he may be right.

They Are Flying Young

COMRADE McPHETERS of Ware, Mass., if you must know, carried a gun south of Washington over 70 years ago. Comrade McPheters is 90 now, but still up to date. Nothing would do him but to fly, so after walking around Washington the other day, he flew. Comrade McPheters' complaint, when he came down, was: "Pooh! It wasn't high enough, nor fast enough, nor long enough."

'Twas ever thus with youth.

'King of Astronomers'

By ARCHIBALD HENDERSON

TYCHO BRAHE has been appropriately tagged "a king among astronomers." He dwelt upon an island, in a position of splendid isolation, with a corps of assistants like a royal retinue to obey his scientific commands. If he needed a particular sort of apparatus, he invented it and had it constructed by his assistants under his direction.

TYCHO BRAHE was born of a noble family at Knudstrup, in a province of Denmark, on December 14, 1546. He was reared by an uncle, who intended to devote him to a political career.

But Tycho became fascinated by an eclipse of the sun, when he was only 14 years of age. Under many difficulties, the lad studied the skies, the planets and the constellations, and in two years had, it has been said, "arrived at the far-reaching conclusions which were soon to revolutionize the science."

He received a suburb education, studying at the Universities of Copenhagen, Leipzig, Wittenburg and Rostock.

ON November 11, 1572, he observed an excessively brilliant star in the constellation Cassiopea. This discovery was regarded by Tycho and his contemporaries as one of capital importance.

It had the effect of finally orienting Tycho in his astronomical career, from which henceforth he never deviated. He published a book about this brilliant new star, under the title "De Nova Stella."

From the variations in its brightness, Tycho predicted extraordinary consequences: "Wars, seditions, captivity and death of princes and destruction of cities, together with dryness and fiery meteors in the air, pestilence and venomous snakes!"

All this was only nonsense, a phase of the astrological mania for prophesying dire happenings in a disturbed and troubled world.

Tycho Brahe will always be remembered as a remarkable handler and inventor of instruments of observation and a superb observer.

Mites on the Branch

By F. Opper

BEHOLD a handful hacking at what they think is an ordinary sort of tree, and trying to cut off a branch.

They do not see they will crash to their destruction. They do not know that the tree is immortal, that nothing can hurt it.

To justify themselves they quote Voltaire, the great agnostic. But they forget that the one phrase that will entitle Voltaire to remembrance is:

"If there were no God it would be necessary to invent Him."

Religion is indeed a tree. It is the Tree of Life, rooted in the human breast and nourished by the noblest human aspirations. The ancients envisioned it as the tree Yggdrasil that bound earth, heaven and hell.

Serene, eternal and inviolate, the Tree of Religion cannot be harmed. It is the staunch flowering of human belief in a Higher Intelligence and a reverence for personality. Who lays hands against it hurts himself, and brings unnecessary pain to others. Uzzah, who laid hands on the Ark of the Covenant, was dashed to pieces.

The Soviet anti-religion campaigners are like unto the mites that perished on the boughs of Yggdrasil. Were they wise they would know it is not Religion that ails Russia, or the rest of the world, but a lack of Religion.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, March 26—In the oaken shadows of a haughty Fifth ave. jewelry establishment is an elderly and scholarly gentleman whose entire life has been spent in the study of precious jewels—scientifically, romantically, traditionally and geographically.

He is Dr. George Frederick Kuns, who is past 70, and has traced the romantic history of every gem of importance. Some have dated back six thousand years. Dr. Kuns has also collated the origin of the mystic ideas mankind formed of gems in all ages—the superstitions and amens.

SOMETIMES he has spent 10 years in digging up the complete history of a single stone and in his laboratory has lived through the romances of jewels that have dethroned kings, defaced ancient empires and otherwise brought death, misery and destruction.

He has explored the diamond fields of Kimberly and poked about other far away corners of the world for lore. The diamond, according to legend, preserves peace and stands for purity. Arkansas is the only section of America where the diamond is found.

One of the myths is that wearing the opal betokens ill fortune. Instead it stands for hope and success. Sentiment associated with stones are: Agate—health and wealth; cat's eye—warns of danger; pearl—innocence; turquoise—prosperity; Sapphire—constancy, and ruby—charity.

THE natal stones of the various months follow: January—garnet; February—amethyst; March—bloodstone; April—diamond; May—emerald; June—agate; July—turquoise; August—carnelian; September—chrysolite; October—beryl; November—topaz, and December—ruby.

The star sapphire at the moment is one of the favored jewels of the very rich. Various stones have had their recurrent rise and fall in popularity, but the diamond has shown the greatest endurance. The diamond must be square. The round cut is outmoded as the stem-winding watch.

Every Vallee shall be exalted!

Experts who forecast boulevard residential changes in the metropolis now decree that in ten years the toney boulevard will be Riverside Drive. Much of the Drive's aristocratic air suddenly swung to Park and Madison aves. in recent years. Many mansions were torn down for hurriedly constructed apartment houses and the Drive was shorn of some of its class. The pendulum is now swinging back. Geographically, it is ideal. With the rippling Hudson at its feet and the cowling and beautiful Jersey hills in the background, it offers the most beautiful vista in town. A great drawback has been the uncovered railroad tracks at the river edge, but that eyesore is shortly to vanish.

AN ancient jehu in a faded plum-colored uniform skirts the curb with his horse-drawn open carriage after the theater and cries out to the passing throng: "Be exclusive. Get a thrill. Avoid the rabble of Broadway!"

There are a half dozen model exchanges to which illustrators may telephone for types and which are furnished instantly. Thus if the artist is in need of a model who must be tall, a blonde and look chic in a hurry, he telephones and the type arrives—bathing suit and all. The exchanges take a percentage of the pay. Some exchanges have as high as 200 models ready and waiting.

"I was waiting for my husband in a hat store," writes Mrs. F. J., and unobserved watched your preening before the mirror, admiring yourself in a gray hat from all angles. You seemed to think you looked mighty handsome."

There is not much to do but blush and look down at my feet.

Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

FIERCE flows the noonday heat outside;
Its waves an angry, rising tide;
But here, beside the quiet pool,
The thick-walled patio is cool.
Like lace its shadows of mesquite,
A fairy carpet for the feet,
Cast by a wide-spread, twisted tree
Along the ancient masonry.

A yucca flower lifts its spears
Against a cruel sky that sears
The prostrate Earth, and by the gate
Two painted jugs for water wait;
Crude in their colors and design,
Yet somehow in each fairy line
A beauty dwells that satiates
The thirst for all this land desires.

Listen, World!

"This Is None of It"

REMEMBER the Mother Goose rhyme of the little old lady who went to market to sell her eggs but fell asleep on the King's Highway? And how, while she slept, the "pedlar named Stout, cut off her petticoats all round about," so that, when she woke, the little old lady cried out in horror and our prize "THIS IS NONE OF IT"

Seemed just as funny rhyme when you heard it as a little lad, didn't it? But how real it has become with the years, too, have cried, facing the consequences of some stupid lapse—"THIS IS NONE OF IT."

All of us setting out to market to sell our eggs. Heads filled with dreams, hearts warm with hope, all of us meaning to do our best. Honestly meaning to do our best. And then suddenly—just why we never can tell,—we begin to ease up. And before we know it, we're trapped like the little old woman. Something in us goes to sleep—our brain—or our conscience.

We forget all our fine plans. We forget the job we had set ourselves to do and, in a sort of nightmare, we commit some foolishness, some dishonesty, some cruelty, something we would never have done in our normal moments.

Then, waking from our lapse, we find ourselves shorn and shamed and cry—"Surely, surely, this is none of I!"

"I couldn't have done this dreadful thing. Why, I've never wanted to do a wrong thing in my life. I've always wanted to do right. I've always meant to be honest and kind and clean.

Truly I have. And I haven't the least idea how I blundered into this mishap. I hate it all as much as you do! Won't you try to understand and believe? Won't you forgive?"

How often YOUVE said that! And how indignant you've felt when people DIDN'T understand you, when they insisted that you blundered deliberately!

BUT aren't there times when YOU won't understand? Those thousands of sinners and fools whom you constantly criticize and condemn, have you ever realized that they too are crying pitifully—"SURELY, TRULY, THIS IS NONE OF I!"

We all mean so well, yet blunder so stupidly. We all start out with such fine eggs in our baskets—and end in a ragged, spattery muddle! And how charitable we are to ourselves when this happens. How easy it is for us to realize that WE didn't mean to go wrong. But when it comes to the other fellow—THAT'S DIFFERENT!

The BAER Facts

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Wagging the Tale of Two Cities

THE London naval conference has done some very nimble dental work on a leopard.

It has succeeded in diluting poison gas down to war strength and victims of atrocities must be notified in advance.

Bayonets will be limited to 16 inches during the fruit and berry season.

Speed limit for German armies through Belgium will be 20 miles an hour in city limits.

The nicest thing accomplished by the last conference is the humanizing of submarine warfare.

No passenger boats will be sunk within the, three-mile limit where a bird has a chance to reach shore.

Further and more acute benevolence will be assured by the printing of free swimming lessons on the nose of each torpedo.

Foodships will be immune. The safest thing you can wave in the next war will be a sandwich.

When a first-class passenger is captured after a sinking, he will be allowed to transfer his deck chair from the liner to the submarine.

There will also be shuffle-boards and miniature golf courses on the decks of all subs.

No spy shall drop a depth bomb into the bathtub of a boarding house nor shall French harbors be mined during the tourist season.

The only thing that can be shelled about a tourist will be his pockets.

If an American has any money left after seeing Paris and London he will have to do another lap around the track.

Like Consul the Ape, who learned to eat with a knife and fork, the diplomats are leaving London thoroughly satisfied with their accomplishments.

They had a nice vacation, got paid for it, did nothing and had assistants. They are on their way back to Washington.

It's a small world after all, as the two worms said when they met in the apple.

H. G. Wells Writes on "The Science of Life"

THE single toe of a horse's foot corresponds to the third or middle toe of the more ordinary five-toed foot. Only the last joint of the toe touches the ground; the hoof in which this last joint is encased is the exact equivalent of an overgrown toenail.

The horse's wrist and ankle are far above the ground, forming the joints commonly called "knee" and "hock"; the true knee is what is styled the stifle.

H. G. Wells

But the other fingers or toes are not completely absent, for attached to the hinder angles of this cannon-bone are two little splint-bones; and that these are the remains of the second and fourth fingers and toes, is amply proved not merely by their position, and by the fact that one or both of them occasionally develop the missing joints and a miniature hoof, but also, as we shall soon see, by their development in the embryo.

The horse's limb, then, is a specially-modified limb; it is a limb in which one toe is enormous and strong, and in which the others have dwindled more or less completely away. It is a limb devoted to a special function.

On open, grassy plains the best means of escape from enemies lies in speed; and it is for speed on comparatively level and hard ground that the legs of the horse are suited. Everything else has been sacrificed to that.

The elongation of the actual foot-region gives a better leverage; the concentration of all the limb-muscles in the upper part of the legs allows for rapid swing; a limb which consists of a single pillar, jointed so as to move only fore-and-aft, transmitting all the weight downwards to a single expanded hoof, is stronger than one which can be moved in all directions, or than one in which the lower arm or leg contains two bones (as in ourselves), and there is less "give" than in a limb ending in several toes.

Accordingly the horse, though it can only execute a very few movements owing to the stiffness of its limb, though it sinks in soft ground owing to lack of spreading toes, though it is not well adapted to broken country triumphs in speed on dry and rolling plains.

Incidentally, length of leg makes length of neck a necessity; without that the horse could not reach down to its food.

The grinding teeth of a horse are beautifully and elaborately adapted for dealing with the tough grasses that he consumes.

They are peculiar in three ways.

First, they are all alike, instead of the true molars being more complex than the pre-molars as is usual. The premolars we may remark in passing, are those grinding teeth which have predecessors in the milk dentation; the molars have not.

Secondly, these quite similar molars and premolars of the horse all have an extremely complicated surface-pattern. Before they cut the jaw-bone they are covered with hard, glossy enamel, rising up in ridges round a couple of deep cavities.

These cavities later get filled up with cement, a substance not quite so hard as enamel, which is secreted by special glands as the tooth breaks through the gum. Under the enamel is the softer dentine.

Use soon grinds off the top of the teeth, with the result that their tops become nearly flat; but as the three materials wear down at different rates, sharp edges of enamel stand up a little beyond the cement, and a little higher above the dentine.

The whole forms a remarkably effective miniature millstone, with the advantage over our millstones that it keeps its grinding-ridges sharp as it is worn down.

The third point about the teeth is that they are of remarkable depth, and that during the first eight years of life they have no closed roots, but go on growing from below, like a rabbit's front teeth, as they are worn away above.

After this roots are formed, new growth ceases, and the teeth are simply pushed up to compensate for the wear at the surface till they are all worn away, and the animal dies because it cannot chew its food.
